Robinson Honored, Kindigs Have Century Farm At Lancaster Ag Industry Banquet

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor
LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — With facts to back up their pride, national, state, and local farm and community leaders, one after another, came forward Tuesday evening to extol the attributes of Lancaster County agriculture. The occasion was the annual agriculture industry banquet sponsored by the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry in conjunction with the National Farm City Week program.

National farm commentator Orion Samuelson sent an exclusive video greeting that told of his visits to the local agriculture community and presented a screen-full of facts to make any industry proud. According to Samuelson, Lancaster County has 5,030 farms, and they are first in the nation for ag receipts in the non-irrigated category. The county is also first in laying hens, pullets, and ag products sold for human consumption. It is second in farms that have gross incomes over $100,000 or more; fourth in number of farms; fifth in number of horses; sixth in number of dairy cows and hogs, and 13th in market value of all ag products sold.

In 1994, Lancaster ag receipts totaled $835,570,000 (well above most states), and the local farm industry provided a base for 39,000 jobs.

Every second of the year, Lancaster County farms produce 80 eggs, 6 gallons of milk, 27 pounds of corn, and one pound of chicken.

"Agriculture is so basic to our well-being, our way of life, and to our economy," Samuelson said.

One of the highlights of the annual event is the announcement of the recipient of the George C. Delp award. This prestigious award is given as the premier mark of achievement in Lancaster County agriculture. The 1996 award was presented to Donald M. Robinson, who is the current district director of the Lancaster County Conservation District. Robinson was an agriculture teacher and young far-

Legislature Finishes, Work To Continue

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The state Legislature ended session Tuesday without local tax reform and without Gov. Tom Ridge's requested gas tax for road repair and maintenance.

Despite all the public attention and debate those two issues received, the proposals died in the House of Representatives, though versions were approved by the Senate.

The state Legislature operates under a two-year session schedule. It coincides with the term of a representative in the House.

All legislative proposals made during those two years that didn't receive full approval by both bodies of the Legislature are officially eliminated.

The next session of the state Legislature, starting January (though terms of office begin in December following election) is now free to take up any new business, or to revisit issues abandoned

Turkey Farmers Prepare Store For Holiday Season

MECHANICSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — "There'll be times tomorrow when customers will be parking over there in the grass."

Kent Strock pointed to some land through which the farm entranceway passed, next to the farm store. Early this week he was busily spreading lime to mark parking spaces in gravel near the store.

On Monday Strock spoke to Lancaster Farming about the nearly 600 cars that would be pulling into the farm store the next day — two days before Thanksgiving — to take home nearly 700 turkeys.

To make way for the hectic holiday rush, Strock took time from tending nearly 40 sows and about 2,600 turkeys on the farm to talk about the challenges that turkey producers face during a hectic holiday season.

Kent farms with wife Raelene and Kent's parents Clyde and Mabel.

Two years ago Kent took over operation of the turkey business from his mother, Mabel. In the recent past, according to Mabel,

Kent Strock raises 2,600 turkeys for wholesale and retail markets. Many are sold at the farm store, Strock's Farm Fresh Meats. Most of the Nicholas White poulters are purchased from Cuddy Farms out of Danville, Ohio. Strock holds up one of the hens in the photo on the left.

When they arrive at the farm, poulters are placed in the well-lit, naturally ventilated house (at right) built in the late '50s. "Some customers say that our turkeys are more white in color," said Strock, which he attributes to more exposure to sunlight in a naturally ventilated house with a dirt/sawdust floor. Delmarva
Broiler

NOVEMBER 26, 1996

Movement and demand of ready-to-cook whole birds remained seasonal. Offerings of whole product was clearing but still adequate for full trade needs. Live supplies and processing schedules were normal. Weights were in a full range but usually desirable to light. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 61 to 75 cents. In the parts structure, best interest was noted where planned features were scheduled on breast items, inquiry was fairly good on wings and giblets, balance of parts were at best fair.

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

NOVEMBER 22, 1996

Prices were unchanged to higher. The market tone was fully steady to firm with yolks in the strongest position. Demand remained active, and was good. Floor stocks were tight to adequate, and some inter-dealer trading was noted to replenish depleted inventories. Raw material costs were unchanged to higher, and offerings were no more than adequate. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection the week ending November 16, 1996 in the Eastern region were 1% more than last week and 13% more than the same week last year.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
NOVEMBER 26, 1996

The lack of new export sales, profit taking, and increased farmer selling of corn, pressured wheat and corn bids lower. Soybean bids were higher due to carryover fund buying on the board. Wheat 2 to 10 cents lower. Corn 1 to 12 cents lower. Sorghum 2 to 6 cents lower. Soybeans 4 to 5 cents higher. Wheat bids declined as foreign demand slackened off and forecasts for World Wheat production for 1997 and 1998 is to rise to 580 million tonnes. This is up from the 1996-1997 production of 575 million.

Corn bids also slipped lower due to lack of new export demand and in reaction to large US and World feed grain supplies. Some profit taking on the board and increased farmer selling were also a pressure factors. Fund buying on the board was noted in bean pits, pushing bids slightly higher after yesterday's declines. Light farmer selling kept strength in bean bids. U.S. Export Sales: Commodity Tonnage Del date Nothing new to report. OK City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
NOVEMBER 27, 1996

Compared to last Monday: Feeder steers and heifers 2.00-3.00 lower. Steer and heifer calves steady to 3.00 lower. Demand moderate for light receipts. Light run due to ice storm in the eastern part of the state.

Quality of calves and weather a major influence on lower calf market. Quality of feeder and calf supply plain to average. Slaughter cows and bulls 2.00-3.00 higher. Demand excellent for reduced receipts.

Very few cows will be available from sale barns this holiday shortened week leaving packers desperate for available supplies. Total of 275 cows and bulls sold with 75 percent to packers. Receipts this week 4,850; last week 15,527; last year 8,558.

Supply consisted of 39 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 55 percent calves under 600 lbs; 6 percent cows and bulls.

DECEMBER 2-8, 1996

FIRST DAY OF CHANUKAH, DEC. 6.

DECEMBER'S FOR PLAYING

Sometimes the busy holiday season has us scurrying around so fast, we forget to stop and play. Keep in mind, though, some of December's heritage. It's the month that the first ball-bearing roller skates were patented in 1884. It's when Monopoly was first introduced in 1935. In fact, it's the birthday month of the founder of Parker Brothers, George S. Parker, born in 1866. It's when the first YMCA was opened in 1851, and when Charles Dickens's A Christmas Carol was first published in 1843. It was the month of the first table tennis tournament in 1901. So light a fire, get out your books, board games, and Ping Pong paddles, and take time to play.

Play consists of whatever a body is not obliged to do.

— The Adventures of Tom Sawyer by Mark Twain

TIP OF THE WEEK

To reduce drier use (and cost), run towels through an additional spin cycle in the washer first.

WINTER FRUIT SALAD

- 2 oranges
- 1 grapefruit
- 2 apples, cored and diced
- 1/2 pound seedless red grapes
- 2 small bananas
- 1 pint strawberries, hulled and sliced
- 2 kiwi fruit
- 1/4 cup honey
- 2 tablespoons freshly squeezed lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons freshly squeezed orange juice

Peel and seed oranges and grapefruit. Slice oranges into rounds and break grapefruit into sections. Prepare remaining fruit and place all in a large glass bowl. Mix honey with citrus juices and pour over fruit. Chill before serving. Makes 8 servings.

THE OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If on the trees the leaves still hold, the coming winter will be cold.

When cattle and horses stay in close groups, a storm is coming.

When the spider cleans its web, fair weather is indicated.

When an ox sticks up his tail, it is a sign of a change in the weather.

Pork Production Forum Dec. 18

ADAMSTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — The annual Pork Production Forum is scheduled Wednesday, Dec. 18 from 9:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. at Weaver's Market on the corner of Rts. 897 and 272.

Sponsored by the LanChester Pork Producers, the forum will examine a range of carcass value pricing systems of hog packers, in addition to sustainable pork production.

The forum includes a free family style lunch. Morning topics include:

- "Carcass Value Pricing Systems of Hog Packers" by Dave Kenyon, Virginia Tech University.
- "Hatfield Carcass Value Pricing System" by Jeff Arner, hog procurement.
- "Sustainable Pork Production, PQA, and Environmental Assurance" by Ken Kephart, extension swine specialist, Penn State.

In the afternoon, the annual meeting and election of pork nominees will take place. Also, LanChester Pork Producers bylaws will also be voted on.

Two seminars will be part of the afternoon session:

- Pork Quality Assurance Level III: 1st Time Certification by Dr. Tim Trayer.
- Pork Quality Assurance Level III: Recertification by Chester

Hughes, Lancaster extension livestock agent.

From 2 p.m.-2:30 p.m., there will be an update on PRV by Dr. Amy Nesselrodt, PRV coordinator and veterinarian with USDA.

Space is limited. Reservation, limited to producers 16 years of age and older, is required by Dec. 15.

Conestoga Boiler Works

Save Money

- Burns wood more economically so you need less for the cold season. A load of wood burns for 3-4 days (load of wood is equal to 5 wheelbarrow loads)
- Retains more heat than competitive boilers for less money.
- Not only heats your home or other structure, but also provides hot water!

Safer

- Safely add wood at any time while the boiler is in operation
- Outside placement of unit reduces possibility of house fire.

Durable

- Outside unit can last up to 25 years
- Not affected by extreme weather conditions (rain, snow, sleet, hail, freezing rain)

Save Time

- The unit takes larger pieces of wood, no more splitting to do! No maintenance - no chimney cleaning - no fire brick to maintain
- Unit produces less ash per cord of wood

Cleaner

- Keep all the bug infested wood outside
- Leave the dirt and bark outside - no more dust and ash throughout the house

Versatile

- Unit can be connected to workshops, swimming pools, greenhouses, barns, etc.

Heats

- 4000 square feet and has a 350 gallon water capacity

Freedom To Farm

This week on Thursday we again gathered with family and friends to be thankful for our blessings in America. These blessings are many and could not be totally chronicled in one short editorial. But certainly freedom to express opinions and religious beliefs would be on the list. And so would the bountiful food supply we enjoyed on our national dinner table.

Along with a good place to rear the family, farmers have traditionally looked at their family farms as part of destiny's obligation to feed the peoples of the world. Many farmers will tell you it is their "God-given responsibility." And modern technology that came to us from the sciences and from a lot of agricultural research helps farmers fulfill their destiny.

Today we seem to be backtracking in our belief that human life is as important as our Christian/Judaic faith would dictate. Emphasis is being placed on environmentalism to the extreme so that this is more important than the call to provide food for hungry people.

But we are thankful for the farmers who have undertaken the task of feeding us. Not only have they provided us with enough to feed our nation, the resulting commerce provides jobs for 20 percent of the people as well. In addition, the export of agricultural products is one of the bright spots in the many balance of trade deficits with other countries.

Let's continue to give farmers the freedom to farm so we can remain the great nation we have become. Let's continue to support them with environmental regulations that allow them to make a living while they are fulfilling their destiny.

To Clean Sprayer

According to Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, your crop sprayer should be cleaned and winterized the last time it is used for the season.

Alfalfa growers may want to wait until the winter annual weed control program is done. If those sprays will be delayed too much longer, protection of the sprayer parts from freezing is advisable.

A gallon or two of RV antifreeze will do an excellent job. To clean a sprayer, mix a sudsy detergent solution using ¼ pound of powder or equivalent amount of liquid detergent for each 25 gallons of water. Run this solution through the sprayer, washing all internal parts. If a hormone-type herbicide such as 2,4-D, Banvel, etc. was used, add one quart of ammonia or ½ pound of activated charcoal for each 25 gallons of water.

After cleaning the sprayer, it needs to be protected from freezing. Run RV type antifreeze solution in the sprayer. Automotive types of antifreeze will do the job but may cause environmental problems if spilled or when the sprayer is used next spring.

Remember to protect the environment by properly disposing of sprayer wash water.

Editor,
Yes, milk is essential — but minimum retail milk prices are not (Nov. 2, 1996 editorial "People Must Decide If Milk Is Essential"). Pennsylvania exports about 40 percent of its milk (concern about enough milk does not apply here). A free market for retail milk prices exists in 47 other states (including all the top milk producing states except Pennsylvania).

(Turn to Page A37)

BVD is a complex disease that is contagious and produces a variety of symptoms. These include death, abortions, and reproductive problems.

Infected cows may appear normal but have depressed immune systems. They may not recover well from other diseases, respond well to treatments, and may be poor performers. Some of these infected, normal-appearing cattle are shedders of infectious organisms. They are a threat to the health of other cows in the herd.

Maintaining a closed herd and practicing good biosecurity to minimize exposure risks are very important. If you do purchase cattle, protect the resident herd and incoming cattle from each other.

To Vaccinate For BVD

One of the best ways to protect the herd from BVD is with a well-designed and properly implemented vaccination program. You may use a modified live or killed virus vaccine. Consult your veterinarian for advice.

It is important to follow the recommendations precisely. Be sure to administer the two shots when recommended. If you do not do this, you are simply wasting money on vaccines that are doing you no good. Worse yet, you live with the false security that the herd is protected, when in fact it is not. Thus, the herd is a sitting duck for infection.

If you buy cattle, use a well-planned vaccination program before commingling the cattle. Do not trust the vaccines the purchased cattle reportedly received unless you know for sure how they were administered. They could have been administered improperly. If you are not sure, consult your veterinarian about the merits of vaccinating them again.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote:
"Reflect upon your present blessings, of which everyone has plenty; not on your past misfortunes of which all people have some."

TOUCHED BY AN ANGEL

TOUCHED BY AN ANGEL
December 1, 1996

Background Scripture:
Luke 1:5-25, 57-80
Devotional Reading:
Luke 1:18-24

Angels are "in" right now, as far as the publishing market is concerned. A few years ago when the first angels books began to appear in the stores, I would never have dreamed there would be so many different titles and this much public interest. Nor would I have thought that the current popular CBS television series, "Touched By An Angel," would be so popular. Lots of people seem very open to these heavenly "Messengers" from God.

The story of the birth of Jesus begins when Zechariah is touched by an angel while he is serving his turn as priest in the temple. We do not know much about Zechariah, except that his priesthood is in the division of Abijah and he is married to Elizabeth, a woman from the priestly family of Aaron. So, they both came from priestly families and they both were righteous, living exemplary lives.

But righteousness was not enough. Something was greatly missing from their lives: "But they had no child, because Elizabeth was barren, and both were advanced in years" (1:7). In biblical times, barrenness was regarded as a divine reproach and sterility was always blamed on the woman! Zechariah and Elizabeth apparently had become used to living with the pain of reproach. (What is it that you have had to become used to in your life?)

HE WAS TROUBLED

Maybe that is why Zechariah, instead of rejoicing, "Was troubled when he saw him, and fear fell upon him" (1:12). Despite years of praying, Zechariah seems unprepared to believe that his prayer will be answered, but the angel's message is very clear: (1) don't be afraid; (2) your prayer has been heard (in fact, Zechariah's name means "the Lord has remembered"); and (3) Elizabeth will bear a son.

But Zechariah is hesitant: "How shall I know this? For I am an old man, and my wife is advanced in years" (1:18). Don't be too hard on Zechariah for his disbelief. I'm glad he was honest enough to express his sincere doubts. How positively would you respond if this was happening to you?

We can't help wondering why had God waited so long to respond to their prayers? The answer, I believe, is that now their prayer and God's purpose finally intersected. They wanted a child and God needed someone to "turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just, to make ready for the Lord a people prepared" (1:14-17).

CLOSE TO GOD

The angel identifies himself: "I am Gabriel, who stands in the presence of God; and I was sent to speak to you, and to bring you this good news." Gabriel is close to God and he shows us that those who are closest to God know that the message of God is always "good news." Those who make the gospel "bad news" must not be very close to God.

But Zechariah, though he was highly born, a priest and had lived a righteous life, was not convinced and Gabriel tells him: "And behold, you will be silent and unable to speak until the day that these things come to pass, because you did not believe my words . . ." (1:20). Can you imagine a worse penalty for a clergyman than being told he could not speak!

But the story ends well. On the eighth day after the child's birth, the people come for his circumcision and assume that he shall be named after his father, Zechariah. But Elizabeth says, "Not so; he shall be called John" ("God is gracious"). Ignoring her, they inquire of Zechariah and on a tablet he writes: "His name is John." Immediately, he regains his power of speech!

Zechariah's doubting spirit has been replaced by the Holy Spirit.

National FFA Convention to Move to Louisville in 1999

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — The National FFA Organization announced that it will move its national convention from Kansas City, Mo., to Louisville, Ky., beginning with the 72nd National FFA Convention in 1999.

Drawing nearly 40,000 guests currently and expected to top 50,000 by the year 2000, the convention has an estimated economic impact of $20 million annually.

FFA signed a seven-year contract with Louisville. The November convention, which has been held in Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium since FFA was founded in 1928, will be held in the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center.

The announcement capped a six-month search for the best site to accommodate the convention's growth and enable FFA to expand the premier educational experience to more of its 450,000 members. Louisville, Indianapolis, and

Kansas City were finalists in the search, conducted by FFA with assistance from Smith Bucklin & Associates. Criteria included an arena that would seat at least 20,000, sufficient and affordable hotel rooms close to the convention site, and adequate facilities for convention activities.

"Taking all the criteria into consideration, Louisville provided the best overall opportunities for the national FFA convention in the future," said Larry D. Case, national FFA adviser and chairman of the National FFA board of directors. "Kansas City has been a warm, generous host, and we thank its citizens and businesses for 68 years of support. However, the convention has outgrown its current facilities, and attendance keeps rising. Looking to the future, we needed a new facility that could better accommodate our current and growing audience. We look forward to forming the same relationships in Louisville as we have had in Kansas City."

The convention will be Louisville's largest. "We are very proud to host this premier youth event," said Ronald L. Scott, president and CEO of the Louisville and Jefferson County Convention & Visitors Bureau. "It is impossible to overestimate the importance of this convention coming to our community. Considering today's hotel rates, the annual spending would total $100 million over the five-year period. With even a modest increase in hotel rates, the convention will have a larger local economic impact than any other single convention booked to date. The bid's success is the result of an aggressive and creative team effort led by the State Fair Board and the bureau, state, county and city governments, and the general and agribusiness communities."

The national convention, the culmination of a year's activities for FFA members, is an opportunity for recognition, business, elections and celebration. Delegates from each state discuss topics affecting the national organization and elect a new team of national officers. Exceptional members and supporters receive awards for their achievement and commitment to the FFA. Students compete in finals rounds of several events, including speaking and parliamentary procedure competitions. Educational and motivational speakers provide opportunities for personal growth and leadership development. Hundreds of exhibitors provide information about education and career possibilities at the concurrent FFA National Agricultural Career Show.

The national FFA officers, a team of six students who lead and represent their fellow members, help plan and implement the convention and other activities. This year's team played an even greater role in the convention by voting with the National FFA Board of Directors on the new location.

"It is an honor to be a national officer during a year with such impact," said Seth Derner, national FFA president. "We considered this decision very carefully as we visited the proposed cities, talked to members and imagined a convention in each different location. My first national FFA convention had a tremendous impact on my decision to continue in FFA. I want more members to have the opportunity to meet FFA members from all over the country, learn more about themselves through development workshops, discover the opportunities in agriculture and FFA, and see the scope of the national FFA organization. It's an incredible experience."

during the previous Legislative session because of a lack of consensus.

While local tax reform seemed promising, a Senate bill was heavily amended in the House, and more or less rejected by the Senate. When the Senate returned the proposal to the House, it was stripped of the amendments.

In a separate, but related matter, residents could get to vote on a referendum to allow a constitutional change that would allow local taxes to be paid from an assessment upon income tax rather than all from real estate.

If the next Legislature picks up the issue early and becomes the second consecutive Legislature to approve a constitutional change, then the matter can be put on the general ballot.

The gas tax, called for by Gov. Ridge almost immediately following winter storms and flood-related damages to state bridges and highways, was left undelivered in large part because of dissatisfaction and disagreement over spending priorities and performance by the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation.

Many local communities were left empty handed after spending so much on road cleanup and treatment of highways with ice-melting and traction-improvement materials.

Other proposals, such as one targeted at "puppy mills" and pet stores that would have given consumers the right to be compensated for losses because of disease or health problems that should have been addressed by the supplier before the animal was offered for sale.

The proposal sought to make breeders and retailers more responsible, and, more or less, to force them to improve conditions or quit the business.

Some changes to state dog law were made in another proposal. That increased fees and, according to agricultural leaders, gave the state Department of Agriculture the tools it needs to get on with the job of enforcing state dog law.

Legislation was also approved to change the state law regarding the enforcement of weights and measures laws, another responsibility that currently falls within the purview of the PDA.

Those regulated by the PDA Bureau of Weights and Measures should not expect to actually see any changes. The change to law was made to recodify the laws, which means they were made to be less confusing. They were also changed to settle disputes between local authority and state responsibility.

While the Legislature stayed late both of the last two days this week to finish, the reasons for staying late were not clear, expect to allow for some last-minute repositioning on the major issues and possibly approval.

The governor is expected to approve into law legislation sponsored by Rep. Arthur Hershey that amends the state clean air law to more clearly define what is agriculture, in terms of the Clean Air Act.

The proposal began because of local non-farming attempts to restrict mushroom farmers, on the premise that odors associated with the practice were a violation of the provisions of the clean air law; and the fact that the state Department of Environmental Protection did not consider mushroom growing to be farming, as protected under the act.

The proposal is expected to bring permanent relief to agriculture, at least from complaints based on the Clean Air Act.

Also approved was legislation that allow a farmer to conduct activities on the farm to further process crops for use on the farm.

According to Brenda Shambaugh, legislative director for the Pennsylvania State Grange, "The Grange has seen significant legislative accomplishments, not only for the agricultural community, but for all rural people as well."

"There are obviously some issues not resolved, like local tax reform, but overall we've had an extremely successful legislative session."

The Grange was the first to notice and lead the battle against a "rebalancing" plan submitted by Bell Atlantic that would have allowed the telephone service provider to lower charges in high density areas and to raise costs to rural customers.

The rebalancing proposal is a direct result of the populist notion that deregulation of an industry improves it because it allows for more competition.

However, in Bell's case, the historic provider is locked in by the state at charging certain rates and providing service to both rural and intercity customers, while those "competing providers" are able to serve only the innercity customers and can undercut Bell's charges.

While Bell may have developed and installed the infrastructure for the telephone system, it has to allow other companies to use the infrastructure.

The result is that Bell can be expected to suffer somewhat from small companies seeking to capitalize by focusing only on undercutting Bell's prices in cities.

The final decision on the Bell request is to come soon, though it is expected to be refused.

The Grange also supported the deregulation of the electric industry to the degree that customers are to be allowed to select the electric provider of their choice, instead of having regions allocated to specific providers and having the companies trade energy as demand and availability dictate.

Grangers set the policy in the belief that it would allow rural communities to maintain or get lower rates.

That deregulation was approved by the Legislature, though it is not clear what will be the end result. Electric providers build plants and make plans when setting and requesting rate approvals from the state Public Utility Commission for the costs associated with dismantling the power plants.

Companies with nuclear power plants, for example, have planned for years ahead to use known income to meet government regulations.

For example, Three-Mile Island is supposed to be eventually decommissioned and plans have previously been made to return the Middletown-vicinity island to a condition that has no evidence of the nuclear plant.

The effect of the paper-electric trade expected to result from deregulation could be to deny companies with significant investment in materials a proper return on that investment to make proper maintenance or closure.

Other questions include such things as who is to be responsible for providing line service to or within a dwelling, if the company selling electricity is merely a user of the wire.

According to Shambaugh, two other achievements of the Legislature include passage of Senate Bill 1371 and House Bill 1886.

SB 1371 changed the definition of agriculture in the Right to Farm

Act to expand it to include the right to conduct on-farm processing activities associated with a family farm operation, such as drying grain and sawing wood, which some have charged is not farming but industrial and therefore not allowed under agricultural zoning.

That issue should be moot, for now.

HB 1886 is an answer to a question that had been asked more and more frequently since the advent of the Farmland Preservation Act several years ago.

The legislation makes it clear that a farm receiving protection from development under the Farmland Protection Act must also continue to receive the protections afforded under the Agricultural Security Area program.

Under the ASA program, condemnations of farm land for schools and highways, etc., are to be difficult to achieve.

Farmland has to be included within an Agricultural Security Area as a prerequisite to being preserved under the Farmland Protection Program.

However, ASAs have a seven-year life.

The question arose: What happens to farmland "protected" from development forever, when it loses its basic protections under a less-than-forever foundation program?

HB 1886 requires that townships have to allow a farm that participates in farmland preservation to always have the protections of an Agricultural Security Area.

In other areas, for rural residents, especially the elderly on fixed incomes who make just over the cut-off amount for eligibility on state lottery funded prescription medicine benefits, the Legislature passed, and the governor signed, a law that creates a higher income level for the basic program and adds a second tier of limited eligibility for the prescription program.

It also approved the Domestic Animal Act, which is significant because it created new definitions of domestic animals, recodified laws, and allows the state the ability to control and monitor animal disease.

Previously, exotic animals, such as ostriches, elk and deer, were outside the purview of the PDA and the health laws. That made it difficult to control diseases such as bovine tuberculosis which has been appearing in domesticated deer and elk, which can spread it to cows, but the state had been unable to require the same health check and disease preventative measures for those animals.

The failure of some laws was also applauded by Shambaugh and others, such as a proposal from a representative to eliminate the authority of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board to set minimum retail prices for drinking milk.

"The fact that we were able to continue the PMMB without having significant changes in its authority, for instance retail pricing, and the fact that we've been able to prove that the PMMB is a viable entity for all dairy farmers across the state and that the industry needs the board to ensure a reasonable farm price, shows that we can be successful in communicating agriculture's message to the Legislature," Shambaugh said.

"Agriculture did well with the General Assembly, which is good for the state, because ag is the leading industry in state. Not only does ag benefit, but every resident of the state benefits.

State Rep. Raymond Bunt, majority chairman of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, said, "I'm very pleased with the accomplishments of the House Ag Committee in the latest Legislative session. We had a full plate in front of us, and we tackled the issues in a bipartisan effort.

"We've given the (PDA) the tools it needed to fix the programs that people have been very critical of," he said.

Though some of the issues that people want settled — such as local tax reform and the accepting of aquaculture as deserving of full agricultural protections — were left unresolved by the Legislature, Bunt said that doesn't mean the effort is over.

"Though the session is over, and we technically have to start from the ground, the headway made on these yet unresolved issues should not be lost."

Regional Program Looks For Innovative Ideas

BURLINGTON, Vt. — Applications are now available for The Northeast Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) Program's 1997 Farmer/Grower Grants Program. The region will award approximately $100,000 in grants to farmers to try innovative production and marketing techniques.

The grants will be awarded on a competitive basis to farmers throughout the 12-state region. Projects may involve small research trials, educational activities, and demonstrations. Project activities should promote good stewardship of natural resources, prevent agricultural pollution, improve farm profitability, and/or enhance quality of life.

Projects must be under the direction of a at least one producer, and collaboration with other producers and other members of the agricultural community is strongly encouraged.

SARE is a USDA competitive grants program with regional leadership and decision making. Created in the 1985 Farm Bill, the program has funded hundreds of projects that help advance knowledge about farm practices that are profitable, environmentally sound, and socially beneficial.

Northeast Region SARE Farmer/Grower Grant applications are available by contacting SARE at Hills Building, University of Vermont, Burlington, VT 05405-0082, (802) 656-0471. Email: msimpson@moose.uvm.edu.

The Farmer/Grower Grant application deadline is Dec. 6, 1996.

Penn State Names Ag Science Interim Department Heads

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Interim heads have been named for the agricultural and biological engineering, agricultural economics and rural sociology, and veterinary science departments in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Dr. Milton Hallberg, professor of agricultural economics, has been named interim head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology. He replaces Dr. Theodore Alter, who was named interim dean of the college in June. Hallberg previously served as interim department head during 1993 and 1994.

Hallberg teaches graduate and undergraduate courses focusing on agricultural policy, international trade and marketing. He also has taught courses in econometrics and mathematical methods applicable to economic analysis.

Hallberg joined Penn State in 1965. When he arrived, much of the quantitative work in the department was being performed on mechanical calculators. To remedy this, Hallberg developed a comprehensive software package that facilitated his own and his colleagues' research. His expertise played a key role in bringing the computer revolution to the department.

Much of his past research has focused on U.S. dairy policy, foreign trade, international agriculture and the impact of biotechnology on the farm sector. His current research includes a pioneering interdisciplinary effort to econometrically model Pennsylvania's food system in order to better understand various economic linkages and their impacts throughout the system.

Hallberg was raised on a farm in Illinois. He received his bachelor's and master's from the University of Illinois and earned a doctorate in agricultural economics from Iowa State University.

Dr. Harvey Manbeck, distinguished professor of agricultural engineering, has been named interim head of the Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering. He replaces Dr. Dennis Buffington, who will remain at the university as a professor of agricultural engineering, conducting education and research programs in agricultural systems management.

Manbeck teaches undergraduate and graduate classes in agricultural and biological engineering. His research focuses on utilizing Pennsylvania hardwood for structural applications such as bridges and construction timbers, and on controlled environments for poultry and livestock.

Manbeck was an assistant and associate professor in the Department of Agricultural Engineering at the University of Georgia prior to joining the Penn State faculty as professor in 1980. From 1975 to 1977 he was an associate professor and extension agricultural engineer at Ohio State University.

Manbeck earned his bachelor's and master's in agricultural engineering from Penn State in 1963 and 1965, respectively, and received his doctorate in agricultural engineering from Oklahoma State University in 1970.

He is a member of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Forest Products Research Society, Sigma Xi and Gamma Sigma Delta, the national honorary agricultural fraternity.

Dr. Gary Perdew, professor of veterinary science, has been named interim head of the Department of Veterinary Science. He replaces Dr. Channa Reddy, who retains his appointment as distinguished professor of veterinary science.

Perdew teaches courses in biochemical and molecular toxicology. His current research focuses on the toxicity of dioxin and related compounds and how kinases are regulated through interactions with heat shock proteins.

Perdew was an associate professor in the Department of Foods and Nutrition at Purdue University prior to joining the Penn State faculty in 1995. From 1984 to 1987, he was a National Institutes of Health postdoctoral fellow in the Department of Oncology at the University of Wisconsin.

He earned his bachelor's and master's in food science from the University of Maryland and his doctorate in food science from Oregon State University, where he received a Chiles Foundation Graduate Fellowship.

He is a member of the NIH Toxicology Study Section and sits on the editorial boards of the journals Toxicology Letters and Toxicology and Applied Pharmacology.

Nominees Sought For Maryland

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis Riley has announced that the search for 1997 Maryland Agriculture Hall of Fame nominees has begun.

This award, created in 1991, honors leaders in the agriculture industry who exemplify high standards of achievement and commitment to the community.

"The Maryland Agriculture Hall of Fame is one of the highest honors we have in Maryland to honor the tremendous farm families of our state. I hope we receive many nominations this year and that the competition is stiff," Riley said.

Nominating committees have been established in each county throughout the local cooperative extension service office. A governor's selection committee chaired by the Maryland Secretary of Agriculture will review all county nominations and select award winners.

Gov. Parris N. Glendening will induct the winning families into the Hall of Fame at the annual Maryland Agricultural Dinner scheduled for Feb. 6.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture has established an alcove where the perpetual award and the photographs of the past honorees may be viewed by the public. This highly visible display is located in the Wayne A. Cawley Jr. Building at 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, Md., on the first level.

For more information on the selection process and the name of the coordinator in your county, please contact Lester Jones at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Marketing Services on (410) 841-5770, or contact your county extension office.

World Wide Leader in Quality Isolation Calf Housing

Did You Know?

University tests and tens of 1,000s of satisfied dairy producers have proven isolation calf housing, hutches, are absolutely the best way to raise healthy calves. Progressive dairy producers do not sacrifice calf health for personal convenience.

Calf-tel is the only thermoformed hutch. Thermoforming is a process that imparts strength to the polymer like forging does to steel. Rotocasting, a process used by all other plastic hutch manufacturers, creates a weaker, less durable product that is prone to cracking.

Calf-tel is the only hutch manufactured with completely opaque material to effectively eliminate the green house effect. This heat trapping effect overheats calves when temperatures climb above 80° F and also causes uncontrollable temperature swings daily when temperatures drop below freezing. Over 100,000 Calf-tels are helping raise healthier, growther calves worldwide from Florida through the sunbelt to California.

Washington across the dairy belt to New England and in 20 foreign countries.

Calf-tel is the only hutch made of high molecular weight polyethylene plastic with a high load UV blocking pigment. This quality material enables Hampel Corp. to warranty Calf-tel for ten years, the longest in the calf hutch industry.

Long after competitive hutches are discarded, used Calf-tels sell from $125 to $200 each—even after ten years of use. Such a high residual value decreases cost per hutch to as low as $12 per year.

When operator comfort is a concern, creative dairy producers have provided covered service alleys or placed Calf-tels in two or three sided shelters during inclement times.

Gates® Not Just Another Belt!

SUPER HC® AND SUPER HC® MOLDED NOTCH BELTS

are designed for use where conventional V-Belt drives are impractical, where space, weight or sheave limitations are present and where increased horsepower capacity and higher speeds are required.

FEATURES:

- Gates "Curves"
Concave sides, Radius Relief and Arched Top combine to minimize wear and assure proper support and strength.
- Full Oil & Heat Resistance
Special material used throughout the belt provides resistance and also helps resist ozone, sunlight, weather and aging.
- Tough Tensile Members for Extra Strength
Superior resistance to fatigue and shock loads. Special bonding material surrounding tensile members provides long service without separation.
- Molded Notches Reduce Bending Stress
Notches are precision engineered for uniform distribution of stresses. Also dissipate the heat of rapid flexing.
- Bandless, Precision Machined Edge for Even Wedging Action
Precisely machined to exact dimensions for uniform fit and reduction of belt slippage.

The world's most trusted name in belts and hose.

NDB, UDIA Elect Officers, Seat New Board Members

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Seven new board members were seated and new officers were elected at the first joint annual meeting of the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board (NDB) and the United Dairy Industry Association (UDIA), held recently in San Antonio.

NDB and UDIA are the principal funding organizations for Dairy Management Inc. (DMI).

NDB elected Maynard Lang, Brooklyn, Iowa, chairman; Harold

Howrigan, Fairfield, Vt., vice chairman; Alice Moore, Frazysburg, Ohio, secretary; and Roger Rebout, Janesville, Wis., treasurer as officers for the 1996-97 term.

Five new board members were seated after their appointments by the U.S. secretary of agriculture Paul E. Rovey, Glendale, Ariz.; Glen E. Schroeder, Caledonia, Minn.; William B. Siebenborn, Trenton, Mo.; James S. Cook, Evergreen, Ala.; and Ruth I. Larabee, Lowville, N.Y. Each begins a three-year NDB term.

Both Randy Dodds, Omaha, Neb., of Dairy Council of Central States, and Kevin Ponticelli, Northbrook, Ill., of Kraft General

Foods, were seated as new UDIA board members.

DMI's marketing arm, the American Dairy Association (ADA), and its dairy nutrition research arm, the National Dairy Council (NDC), also elected officers.

Ed Niernan, Concordia, Mo., was chosen as ADA's chairman, along with Bavido, vice chairman; Schroeder, secretary; and Bob Strasser, Nashville, Tenn., treasurer.

The 1996-97 NDC officers are Buckey Jones, Smithdale, Miss., chairman; Doyle Stokes, Conway, Mo., vice chairman; K. Allen Roszel, Montrose, Pa., secretary; and Bill Kelch, Clifton, Ill., treasurer.

Dairy Management Inc. is a non-profit organization that conducts programs in integrated marketing communications, promotion and research for U.S.-produced milk and dairy products on behalf of America's dairy farmers.

Animal Science Major Rides To Championships

NEWARK, Del. — Rain the night before had made the ground muddy, but University of Delaware sophomore Kim Cian and her horse, Fabian, were performing their dressage movements without a hitch.

If they scored well in this, the last of four qualifying shows, Cian was sure they'd make the regional team slated to compete in the North American Young Riders' National Championship in August.

"We've got this nailed," Cian thought to herself. But fate was against it. With one movement to go, Fabian's hind foot stuck in the mud for an instant and twisted, and he began limping. In that moment Cian's hopes were dashed. Tears streamed down her face as the judge told her to leave the arena.

Cian and Fabian didn't make the team. After her scores at the qualifying shows were averaged, she was bumped by one point. But her heartache turned to joy when she learned that she was one of only six riders nationwide chosen to compete individually in the championship.

"Even though I didn't make the team, I was thrilled to compete as an individual," said Cian. "Getting to the national championship had been my goal for six years."

As for Fabian, the ill-timed pain in his leg cleared up almost as soon as he left the arena. His speedy recovery enabled him to accompany his rider to Illinois for the Federation Equestre Internationale sponsored competition, where the pair placed 19th out of 45.

Cian has been working with Fabian for four years, but her passion for riding began when she was

F.O. 4 December Milk $17.36

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Rex F. Lothrop recently announced for December 1996 a Class I price of $17.36 per hundredweight and a Class II price of $14.43 per hundredweight.

The December Class I price includes the 20-cent assessment for fluid milk promotion and consumer education. The Class I price, less the 20 cent assessment, and the Class II price are down $1.24 from November but are $1.52 higher when compared to year-earlier levels.

Mr. Lothrop announced a Class III milk price of $14.21 per hundredweight for October 1996 and a Class III-A price of $15.02 per hundredweight for the month.

The Class III price was down

$1.24 from the previous month, and the Class III-A price decreased 91 cents.

The December 1996 Class I and Class II prices and the October 1996 Class III price are based on the October 1996 basic formula milk price of $14.13 per hundredweight at a 3.5 percent butterfat content.

The October 1996 butterfat price was $1.4063 per pound, down 25.36 cents from September. The October skim milk price per hundredweight was $9.63.

The USDA reported that the wholesale price of Grade A butter at Chicago for October was $1.2445 per pound on the mercantile exchange and the Central States nonfat dry milk price was $1.3155 per pound.

Lebanon Extension Recognizes Volunteers' Dedication

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
SCHAEFFERTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Lebanon County Cooperative Extension Service held its 79th annual banquet/meeting last week at the Schaeffertown Fire Hall.

In addition to the reading of the minutes, and the disbursing of the extension office's annual report, extension staff recognized outstanding achievements by volunteers and held an election for four positions on its 21-member board of directors.

Re-elected were Frances Krall, of Myerstown, a retired nurse active in the Society of Farm Women and a volunteer on the county Extension Family Living Advisory Committee; Glen Krall, a Cornwall dairy and crops farmer with children enrolled in 4-H, he also serves on the Extension Agronomy Advisory Committee; and Lynn Fleet, Lebanon, a homemaker, former professional craftsman, a master gardener volunteer, and a participant and volunteer in the family living programs.

Newly elected was Laura Jean Watson, of Newmanstown, a homemaker and home-school parent with four children in 4-H, who has served as a 4-H leader and who has been a past member of the board of directors.

In other business, county Extension Director Alletta Schadler discussed the success of the Lebanon Extension program, its programs, dedicated staff, and its corps of dedicated volunteers.

She also noted the support of county commissioners, who were in attendance, and the continuing role of extension to serve the community by providing researched-based information on a wide variety of aspects of day-to-day life, helping to provide community volunteer-lead developmental and goal-oriented activities for youth, as well as helping entrepreneurial people with small businesses.

Also present was Dr. Gary San Julian, the director for the Penn-State Cooperative Extension Southeast Region.

Julian told the audience that the support from the state was encouraging and helped restore some of the programming that was allowed to atrophy or disassemble in the preceding decade.

He also talked about the changes that are to be coming to the role of extension in aggressively serving a broader-based constituency.

Technically, the Penn-State Cooperative Extension program is to be available for all to use its services — city, urban and rural residents of the state.

Historically, rural residents, especially those involved with farming either for profit or for fun, have been the largest user of extension services. It also made sense since the dean of the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences had been in charge of the program and its development until recently.

It has been announced by Penn State that the extension program hierarchy within the university is to shift from being a College of Ag Sciences-only domain. A university wide vice president is to be responsible for coordinating resources among the various colleges within the university system to provide users with a greater information knowledge resource base, and better community outreach services.

Obtensibly, changes in degree programming at select university satellite campuses, as well as changes in technology are expected to help strengthen the ability of the people of the state to be more independent, knowledgeable and safer in creating their own lives and better able to take advantage of opportunities.

He discussed training for the anticipated transitions and how it is necessary for people to be able to adapt.

San Julian thanked Schadler for her leadership and support for the program in the county and the region.

The guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Herbert Cole, a Penn State professor of agricultural science, who urged group to be wary of decisions being made locally and statewide that aren't being made with the proper input from the people who will be affected by those decisions.

Using a slide projector, Cole showed how zoning for large-lot residential areas in agricultural sectors has largely destroyed more farmland because it requires so much land-use per capita.

It also requires the use of motorized transportation and the use of highways.

In the time he had, he tried to demonstrate how decisions "made from the seat of a car" are self-defeating and perhaps economically dangerous for the long-term.

He said that if just the agricultural production from Lebanon and Lancaster counties were to be considered, it would represent 42 percent of the state's total agricultural production.

"Agriculture in the southeast region of the state is tremendous," he said. "If Lebanon and Lancaster were a state, it would No. 30 among all (50) states."

He said the future of that amount of economic industry is threatened by those who depend upon it — those who seek to reside in the area.

The restrictive use of large amounts of land for limited residential housing was seen years ago as a preventative against irresponsible development. However, Cole showed how it has not impeded development, but rather has increased the consumption of agricultural land for development.

Basically he called for residents to look at what local policy is doing to the land and the resources.

Cole also said the future of farming in the area will probably continue to change from the traditional family farm that was typical of the landscape to one in which farms no longer resemble farms and more resemble factories in close proximity to residential neighborhoods.

He said the small-production independent agricultural producer will be one who seeks and develops local market niches.

"The key to sustainable agriculture is profitability," he said, noting that those were the sentiments of state Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius.

He also said that different production attitudes should be adopted, so that a producer doesn't consider himself, for example, to be a grower of Durham wheat, but a pasta manufacturer.

Currently there are four processors operating in the state that account for the processing of 80 percent of all the state's beef, poultry and pork. "The challenge for the farmer, is how to get his fair share."

He said the economies of scale, "and all that goes with it," challenge today's farmer, especially in southeastern Pennsylvania. He said that contract production is controlling an increasing share of the market of all agricultural products.

"My father never questioned that no one would buy his chickens," Cole said, adding that when his father raised birds there was always a market willing to buy it. Now, those days are gone.

"The ties from production to consumer are getting tighter and tighter."

He said that common misperceptions about the agricultural community have the Plain Sects faring well, but the truth is far from that.

He said it has become more common among the Plain Sects that three generations are effectively attempting to purchase a farm today. He said that when a father purchases a farm, he works it until his oldest son is able to take over farm production, leaving the father to work off the farm in carpentry.

When the grandson becomes old enough to take over the farm, his father and grandfather are working off the farm and all are still paying for the farm.

Further, there has been a greater increase in non-farm activism coming from the urban residential areas of southeastern Pennsylvania.

"We've got a preception problem," he said. "(Farmers) in (the

Superior Rumen By-Pass Protein From Superior Technology

While only recently introduced into the U.S. dairy market, Soy Pass® has had exceptional success and acceptance worldwide. Last year, more than one million cows were fed Soy Pass®. Why? Because Soy Pass® users have profited from

- Increased milk production*
- Reduced feed cost while maintaining milk production

The success of Soy Pass® can be attributed to its unrivaled properties

- 74% By-Pass Protein — and it's digestible
- An ideal amino acid profile — a key to maximum performance
- Excellent Palatability — cows love Soy Pass®!

Soy Pass® is a patented, all vegetable, by-pass protein. All of the protein in Soy Pass® comes from soybean meal, the standard against which all other proteins are judged.

For information on how you can include Soy Pass® in your dairy rations, call 1-888-SOY-PASS or contact your consulting nutritionist or feed supplier.

southeastern part of the state) have to be articulate in expressing the importance of agriculture to the community," he said.

The diminishment of farm-support infrastructure, such as farm machinery and machinery parts suppliers, are creating some unusual practices. He said he knows of a farmer in the northern part of the state who needed a part for a combine and had to have the part helicoptered into the field from the southeast, or risk losing crop in the ground.

He said that he sees a future with more and more part-time farmers. And while the full-time farmer has sometimes been associated with some disdain for the part-time farmer, Cole said that the best ally to the full-time farmer is probably the part-time person.

"Part-time farmers are the best ally the full-time farmers ever had. Even though there are differences, (the part-time farmers) have the same goals and values."

More than 53 percent of the income to farm families is coming from off the farm today.

He said that there has to be more and more sitting down in family conferences and planning.

Opportunities for small productionists include such things as raising wine grapes for local wineries or boarding horses.

"The future of agriculture in southeastern Pennsylvania is in your hands — every person, rural and urban," he told the audience.

The development of future life needs the involvement of those who will live here, he said. "The (development of the land and societal policy for the future) should be by a conscious decision, and not just living with what somebody has done to us," he said.

"We need a future that isn't negotiated from the seat of a car."

In other business, volunteer recognitions were made by extension staff.

Debbie Hartman was especially honored for her volunteer work as a master gardener.

She set a county volunteer record with logging-in in excess of 2,000 hours.

She has been a master gardener since 1990, and in 1994 was named state master gardener of the year.

In addition she provides leadership to a group of amateur herbalists, with about 50 people involved. She and some others provide education, and Hartman also teaches classes.

In addition, Hartman has joined Schadler in doing training throughout the southeast region on communications and teaching skills.

She also conducted training in the master gardener program on food preservation techniques, including canning, freezing, pickling and fermenting-pickling.

Currently she is involved with a program on teaching techniques for preserving flowers through pressing.

Others in the master gardener program receiving recognition were the class of 1995-96 who have completed the training period and initial required 50 hours of volunteer service.

Included in that group were Paul and Ann Hornberger (the first husband and wife team), Lyndell Richards, Lynn Pleet, John Summers, Cheryl DeLancey, Todd Lyons, Joan Miller, Jan Morrissey, and Robin Wolfe.

A group of 11 people is currently in the first phase of training to become a master gardener.

In 4-H leader awards, Martha Gregory, county 4-H coordinator, recognized first-year leaders Michelle and Daryl Grumbine, Allison Martin, and Debbie Tice. They were presented with a front automobile 4-H vanity plate, as well as notebooks to use in their leadership duties, as well as receiving their first year leader awards.

Special recognition was made in memory of Harold Bollinger, of Kleinfeltersville, who, since 1942, had been involved in the county extension program, serving on the county extension executive committee, which later became the board of directors.

He was involved in the education programs as a young man and was a tireless supporter of all parts of the program.

A master farmer, he was involved in many aspects of community service and in helping to increase the quality of life for others in the community.

Also recognized was the late Newton Bair, who had been a Lebanon County extension agent from 1972 to 1983. He had been a farmer in York County prior to extension and helped provide assistance to farmers in Lebanon County.

Tie Stall Barns

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Here is a chance to brush up on methods for improving cow comfort, health, and productivity in your clients' tie stall dairy barns.

Attend a meeting on Comfortable and Productive Tie Stall Barns on Tuesday, Dec. 17 at the Leola Family Restaurant in Leola.

Farm advisers, extension workers, veterinarians, ag teachers, builders, consultants, and lenders can learn how important it is for cows to have comfortable, properly sized tie stalls that allow the cow to recline and rise freely and without injury.

Also, learn how to keep cows on a clean, comfortable surface and allow them to conveniently reach feed and water.

Leaders will include Dan McFarland, Glenn Shirk, and Bob Graves. Two farms will be visited, so bring appropriate clothing and footwear.

To register, send a check by Friday, Dec. 13 for $12 made payable to Agricultural Extension to cover meeting room costs, lunch, and breaks. Send the check to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Lancaster, PA 17601-3184, (717) 394-6851.

Penn State Agents Honored

ANNEX WELLSBORO (Tioga Co.) — Several members of Penn State University's Cooperative Extension staff are among 84 agents in the United States who received distinguished service awards recently at the annual meeting of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents in Nashville, Tenn.

This is the 58th year that the National Association of County Agricultural Agents has awarded the distinguished service honor and, in that time, 5,764 agents have received this award.

Those honored were William Kleiner, Adams, Franklin and York extension agent, and Carol Schurman, Indiana County extension agent.

According to J. Craig Williams, Tioga County extension agent and state recognition and awards committee chair, the two agents were cited for "outstanding educational contributions and accomplishments."

The awards program highlighted the annual meeting where more than 1,800 extension agents and guests convened in September to review their responsibilities as educators and attend professional improvement workshops.

Kleiner has been a member of the extension staff for almost 15 years. He was instrumental in the development of a consumer educational program on fruit production in southcentral Pennsylvania, which included his video, "The All American Apple." He also developed an extensive program on the proper and safe use of agricultural chemicals to protect the environment and applicator. He has provided leadership to the fruit industry in intensive orcharding, integrated pest management, fruit cultivar evaluation, orchard expert systems, and government regulations.

Schurman has been a member of the extension staff for 18 years. She has developed innovative 4-H programs, with 4-H enrollment increasing 104 percent. She introduced 4-H embryology to schools with enrollment of 700 in 30 classrooms. Her programs have enabled 140 members and leaders to participate in national 4-H events. She formed coalitions with other youth groups, and initiated day camps in agricultural science and environmental awareness. Schurman's communications programs have taught hundreds of youth about presentations, speaking, and making good impressions.

Also honored were Alan Strock, Lancaster and Chester extension agent, and Jeffrey Fowler, Venango County extension agent.

The award recognizes agents with less than 10 years of service to cooperative extension.

Strock has been a member of the extension staff for eight years. He provides farm management leadership in Chester, Lancaster, and southern Berks counties. He led and organized three of the four top-rated Dairy MAP programs in 1995. His mission is to increase farmers' profitability and efficiency and make the transition of farm assets and management skills to the next generation with ease and little cost. Strock's activities include FINPACK, estate planning, farm transfer, farm taxation, business structure selection, risk management and profit maximization.

Fowler has been a member of the extension staff for 7½ years. He was instrumental in the development of the northwest Pennsylvania 4-H livestock program. He has developed a strong program advisory committee in the region that has initiated educational programs to increase knowledge of basic livestock production and introduce youth to the diversity of careers available to them in the field of agriculture.

In addition, his program area includes adult agriculture in Venango County, where he is the county extension director.

Pet Food Joint Venture Forms

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Agway Inc. announced that it has formed a joint venture, together with five other prominent agricultural cooperative organizations, to manufacture pet food and related products.

The joint venture participants, along with Agway, are Countrymark Cooperative, Inc.; Growmark, Inc.; Land O'Lakes, Inc.; Southern States Cooperative, Inc.; and Tennessee Farmers Cooperative. Terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

The joint venture will purchase the assets of the pet food manufacturing and distribution business of Agway which consists primarily of a pet food manufacturing facility in St. Marys, Ohio.

The joint venture will operate as a limited liability company under the name Pro-Pet, L.L.C. Its products will include the well known brands currently manufactured and distributed by Agway including Big Red® dog food, Li'l Red® cat food, and the Pro-Pet® premium line of dog and cat foods.

Each of the joint venture members has agreed to bring a volume of business to the venture to support its operations.

Conservation Districts Honor Cooperators

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent
WOODSBORO, Md. — The Frederick and Catoctin soil conservation districts held their annual banquets recently. Cooperators met for dinner, and awards were presented to four outstanding participants in each district.

The Frederick district's banquet was held Friday, November 1 at the Woodsboro Fire Hall. Jesse Burall, chairman of the board, welcomed a crowd of approximately 145 to the dinner. Following the roast beef and fried chicken meal, there was a talk by guest speaker Ron Young, deputy director of the Maryland State Office of Planning. Young is also a former mayor of Frederick.

Young serves on a task force appointed by Gov Parris Glendening to examine the trends in growth and development throughout the state. He spoke of some "alarming trends it's very important we reverse in this state." Specifically, Maryland's rate of growth is outpacing the infrastructure in place to support it. He cited three factors: a population shift from urban areas to "formerly rural areas," an increase in the average lot size for new home construction, and a decrease in household size, as factors contributing to the pressure on land in rural areas of the state. He said in central Maryland between now and 2020, an equal amount of land will be used for development as has been used in the entire history of the state. He anticipates 500,000 acres of farm and forest land going for development.

"One of the most unifying factors pulling people together is economics," he said. "America is based on owning land and being able to do what you want on it, but people want less taxes, and the two don't go together."

Young said the state is looking at ways of intelligently focusing the growth. He suggested making more money available for purchasing farm easements through a bond program which is one idea the Governor is looking at. Also, the Maryland Department of Agriculture (Turn to Page A25) culture is examining ways to give farmers more leeway in processing their own products and being able to sell them directly to consumers from the farm in an effort to encourage greater profits from farming.

"The best value of farmland should be for farming, not to sell it for development," Young said.

Ernest S. Christian, Willows Farm Company, at Union Bridge was presented with Frederick County's Cooperator of the Year award. Christian has owned the 200-acre farm for almost 20 years. He works off the farm as an attorney in Washington, D.C.

In the last five years, the Christians have become interested in breeding Limousine beef cattle. The herd consists of 20 registered Limousines and approximately 40 Black Angus and Shorthorn crosses.

According to Gene Bollinger, herdsman for the operation, the Christians have implemented a rotational grazing system that was updated last year. There are eight paddocks fenced with seven strands of high tensile wire, with four hot. They have fenced out a stream and installed a gravity flow waterer from a farm pond. All the acreage is in hay — mostly grass, including orchardgrass and matua grass, with a little alfalfa being grown as well. Christian plans to start a flushing program, and will sell Limousine stock.

Glenn and Jean Eaves and family, Oak Bluff Farms, were honored with the Raymond Keilholtz Memorial award. Oak Bluff Farms is family owned and operated, and includes Mr. and Mrs. Eaves, sons Doug, Glenn Jr. and his wife Rebecca, and Richard and his wife Tammy. There are also seven grandchildren, ranging in age from 2-15 years.

Oak Bluff Farms was established in 1957. A total of approximately 2,600 cows are milked on two farms, in what has been grown by the Eaves family into one of the state's largest dairy operations.

The Eaves have been cooperators with soil conservation since 1983. They farm approximately 3,600 acres on different farms, and each of the last three years have planted 1,000 acres of cover crops. Other conservation practices implemented include roof runoff management, water troughs, strip cropping, grass waterways, stream buffers, and critical area planting. Oak Bluff Farms has a nutrient management plan, and there is a manure storage facility that can accommodate 300 cows for six months.

Dyke and Mary Garver were presented with the Take Pride in Frederick County award. They have been cooperators since 1985.

The Garvers purchased their dairy farm and also rent Dyke's parents' farm across the road, for a total of approximately 145 acres. Carl Garver, Dyke's father, helps on the farm. The family milk approximately 95 cows, mostly Holsteins. Twelve years ago, they purchased a Lineback cow, and now she and four of her offspring are in the milking string as well.

In the last several years the Garvers have installed water troughs and three grassed waterways on the farm. "We graze a good bit," said Dyke, "probably 50 acres are in pasture. It's been that way ever since we've been there, and I'm going to keep it that way." An ag waste facility has also been installed.

Lois Noffsinger Spurrier was honored as Conservation Teacher of the Year. A kindergarten teacher at Good Shepard Lutheran school in Frederick, Mrs. Spurrier has been an educator for 32 years. She values the impressionable nature of her young students' minds.

"I teach five-year-olds. Their little minds are open and they soak it up," she said of her work teaching youngsters. She received a certificate of appreciation and a gift basket.

The Catoclin District banquet was held Friday, November 15 at the Jefferson Community Center. A roast beef and country ham dinner was prepared by the Jefferson Ruritan club. Daniel C. Poole, chairman of the board for the district, was master of ceremonies.

ceived this year's Cooperator of the Year award. The couple is the third consecutive generation to farm their Myersville dairy. Also involved in the operation are son Walter, with his wife Kendra and their daughter Allison, and daughter Diane Harne, with her husband Donny and their children Lindsay and Megan. The Bussards have been cooperators since 1987.

The home farm occupies 107 acres, and two additional farms are rented to provide extra feed and housing for the 90 milk cows and 140 replacements.

"We're trying to do a good job overall. We've had strips on the rented farms for years," said Walter Bussard. They rotate corn, small grain, and hay. In 1987 Paul installed a trough with water from the homestead springhouse. Water breakers have been installed in the farm's access roads to divert stormwater off the roads to control erosion.

David and Norma Miller, co-operators since 1982, were honored with the Take Pride in America award. They own a 152-acre farm in Burkittsville, farmed by Charles Brandenburg.

Corn, small grain, and hay are rotated through the tillable acres. Field strips were installed in 1992. This year, the Millers installed a grass waterway to reduce erosion and protect water quality, and also a diversion.

Two years ago the Millers were approached by the National Trust for Historic Preservation about putting their farm in a historic preservation program. They consented, and now the entire farm is enrolled in the program. The Millers may not alter the appearance of the farmstead, particularly the home or the bank barn, without consulting first with the National Trust.

Robert and Jean Galey and Family, Catocin Creek Farm, received the Charles H. Remsburg memorial award. Mrs. Charles (Elizabeth) Remsburg was on hand for the presentation. Helping on the farm are the Galey's sons Seth and Todd.

Catocin Creek Farm is a 25-acre family operation with 16 acres in crops, including pumpkins. The balance is pasture for the family's Romney sheep. They market breeding stock, freezer lambs, pelts, fleeces, and yarns.

The Galeys have been cooperators with the Catocin district since 1988. They have installed Best Management Practices including waterways, a water trough, and permanent cover on the cropland.

Ron Albaugh is the district's Conservation Teacher of the Year. Mr. Albaugh has taught high school biology in Frederick County for 25 years. He teaches advanced placement biology and will teach environmental science at Middletown High School. He has encouraged and assisted students to work at the National Cancer Institute at Ft. Detrick in Frederick through high school work study programs.

Albaugh has coached students who have gone on to national and international Envirothon competitions. This year his state winning team captured 2nd place at the National Envirothon in Ashland, Nebraska this past summer.

This year Albaugh was also honored by the Md. Association of Soil Conservation Districts as Conservation Teacher of the Year.

He and his wife, Bonnie, live on a 90-acre hay and grain farm in Rocky Ridge, where they have installed a grass waterway, a pond, stripcropping, and a diversion.

National Grange Reaffirms Agriculture Policy

SPOKANE, Wash. — The delegates to the National Grange recently voted to continue support of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), as well as maintaining current policy regarding Federal Milk Marketing Order reform pricing.

Agriculture Committee chairman Robert Caldwell of North Carolina said of the action, "Our delegates came here to Spokane with some concerns about the Grange's support of NAFTA, GATT, and our dairy policy. After some intensive committee discussion, it was our feeling to give all three of these issues our continued, wholehearted support."

Building upon the tradition of representing small to mid-sized farmers, the delegates to the National Grange voted to continue support of these issues at the annual convention.

The topics stemmed from the recent ruling from the NAFTA trade panel to uphold tariffs in excess of 300 percent on certain dairy products into Canada. Delegates voted to continue to support NAFTA, but to call on Congress and the president to insure a level playing field for United States' agricultural products.

Dairy policy discussion was due in part to last year's Farm Bill ruling that directed the secretary of agriculture to reduce the number of federal milk marketing orders and compile a new pricing mechanism for dairy products. Delegates reaffirmed their stance of supporting a pricing system that reflects the cost of production, regional markets and multiple component pricing.

National Master (President) Kermit Richardson expressed his pleasure with the decision of the delegates.

"I am very pleased with how the delegate body voted. These issues can become very passionate to our members," Richardson said. "I look forward to working with Congress in trying to work out any inequalities in our trade agreements. I commended our delegates for understanding the importance of these trade agreements and just how much they benefit our members."

Speaking at the organization's annual convention, Richardson called upon the Grange's 300,000 members to lead the fight in protecting rural America against any unjust costs due to electric utility deregulation.

Building upon the tradition of representing rural electric customers, delegates to the National Grange voted to oppose mandated retail wheeling and any other language that may be detrimental to electric customers.

Delegates from 37 Grange states voted to support policies that would insure all consumers safety and reliability to electric service, cooperatives equal access and all consumers access to electric service.

Richardson told delegates, "Resist those who would rush to embrace federally mandated electric utility deregulation which includes retail wheeling."

"When people in Washington D.C. are promising customers lower utility bills, one would rush to embrace such an idea; however, I remain very skeptical of such an idea for rural Americans."

"Our vision is that in any retail competition legislation, state or federal, residential and small electric consumers should receive equal treatment. Universal service should be a requirement for any retail service providers. It is not in the national interest for the marketplace to favor large consumers of electricity to the disadvantage of those less able to negotiate rates and services," Richardson said.

the farm raised as many as 3,500 birds for wholesale and retail markets. But most of the birds now are raised for the dressed, retail market — many of which are sold at the farm store, Strock's Farm Fresh Meats.

Kent said the business dates

back to the mid-1930s, when his grandmother, Rhoda, began the business with her husband George.

The business began as a school FFA project that blossomed into a profitable enterprise.

Back then, "farmers did everything," said Mabel. "You had everything — poultens, pigs, cows, a little of each."

Kent affectionately remembers Grandma Rhoda. "My father can tell you stories about Grandma helping to clean poultens in the farm house," he said. "She loved raising turkeys. She did almost all the turkey work. She was quite a woman."

The business remains healthy because of the relationship the Strocks have maintained with customers, 90 percent of which live within a five-mile radius, according to Strock. Customers from Dillsburg, Camp Hill, Mechanicsburg, Lemoyne, and other areas purchase hand-selected turkeys by weight.

The early season birds are purchased as 24-hour-old poults in June. Thanksgiving birds are purchased in July and Christmas birds in August.

Most of the Nicholas White turkey poults are purchased from Cuddy Farms out of Danville, Ohio. In most cases, according to Strock, the poults are picked up in quantities of 100 per box at 3:30 a.m.-4 a.m. from a truck off a nearby turnpike exit.

Strock loads the boxes into the back of a pickup or his van.

The poults have been debeaked, detoxed, and sexed. Most of the orders are for hens (about 80 percent of the total) with the rest toms.

For the Christmas stock, Strock selects about 900 hens and 100 toms. Customers want a smaller bird for carving, according to Strock — the reason they place hens for growout.

The early flocks are split 50/50 on the ratio of hens to toms.

When they arrive at the farm, the poults are placed in a well-lit, naturally ventilated house built in

The challenges remaining for the Strock family are to develop and maintain customer loyalty. The business remains healthy because of the relationship the Strocks have maintained with customers, 90 percent of which live within a five-mile radius. Here Strock gives directions to a customer.

Early this week, Kent Strock was busily spreading lime to mark parking spaces in gravel near the store.

The birds sold at retail end up as employer gifts at the holiday table. For Thanksgiving, Strock estimates that of the 1,000 birds the store will sell, 300 will be gift turkeys, hens weighing between 16-18 pounds. Toms will weigh about 23-28 pounds. Mostly family members are involved in the dressing process, which occurs at certain times before the start of the holidays. The turkeys are processed and wrapped in cream-colored plastic shrinkwrap packaging and placed in boxes with the Strock Farm logo.

Extension Fraternity To Hold National Meeting in Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Exactly 165 Cooperative Extension Service educators associated with land-grant universities across the nation are expected in Annapolis the weekend of December 5-7 for the annual meeting of Epsilon Sigma Phi, the national honorary fraternity for Cooperative Extension Service workers in all subject areas, both at state and county levels.

Conference sessions will be held at the Annapolis Marriott Waterfront Hotel. The opening workshop on Thursday will feature a nationwide live, interactive videoconference uplinked from the conference site, 1:30-4:30 p.m. EST. Craig Pace, senior consultant with the Covey Leadership Center, based in Colorado, will be the presenter. His topic is "Moving Forward ... Keeping Pace With Change."

Epsilon Sigma Phi's traditional Ruby Award luncheon is set for Friday. It will feature an address by Henry A. Wadsworth, director of the Indiana Cooperative Extension Service, based at Purdue University. Dr. Wadsworth is this year's recipient of the Ruby Award - the highest, most prestigious national distinguished service award presented by Epsilon Sigma Phi. The Ruby Award is designed to recognize truly outstanding thinking, performance and leadership in the Cooperative Extension Service.

Born in Cortland, N.Y., Wadsworth holds B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in agricultural economics from Cornell University. He has served in academic and administrative positions at Cornell, Oregon State and Purdue.

Wadsworth also has held several positions of leadership with the Extension Committee on Organization and Policy, affiliated with the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant colleges. He is described as "an effective, efficient visionary who has propelled Indiana's Extension programs into high regard."

One or more National Friend of Extension award winners will be recognized at a Saturday evening awards dinner. This is the highest award offered by Epsilon Sigma Phi to a non-Extension person for outstanding support and personal involvement in Extension education efforts. Louis L. Goldstein, Maryland state comptroller, received this award in 1994.

Awards for outstanding accomplishments by professional Extension educators also will be made at the Saturday banquet.

Maryland's Tau chapter of Epsilon Sigma Phi, established in 1928, is the host organization for this year's national conference. Ellen Varley, a Cooperative Extension Service state specialist at the University of Maryland at College Park, is chairperson for local arrangements. Ms. Varley is Extension coordinator for distance education and outreach communications.

"Some customers say that our turkeys are more white in color," said Strock, which he attributes to more exposure to sunlight in a naturally ventilated house with a dirt/sawdust floor.

In the first four weeks of age, Strock feeds the birds a commercial starter. At four weeks the birds are fed a specialty mix prepared by Strock consisting of corn and bean meal and a mineral supplement.

Strock said he uses no growth promotants or hormones. The birds are not vaccinated for any programs — mainly because the birds are cleaned out at the end of the holiday season, the houses are completely disinfected, and the house is empty until the next growout.

The birds sold at retail end up as employer gifts at the holiday table. For Thanksgiving, Strock estimates that of the 1,000 birds the store will sell, 300 will be gift turkeys, hens weighing between 16-18 pounds. Toms will weigh about 23-28 pounds.

Mostly family members are involved in the dressing process, which occurs at certain times before the start of the holidays.

The turkeys are processed and wrapped in cream-colored plastic shrinkwrap packaging and placed in boxes with the Strock Farm logo.

Customers also rely on the Strock turkeys at other times of the year. Every year in October Strock sells about 300 birds to the Carlisle Fish and Game Club for turkey shoots and block parties.

Most birds finish from 16-17 weeks of age. Some birds are killed at a younger age, about 15 weeks at 12-14 pounds.

Strock noted that keeping a loyal customer base is critical to success.

"People that buy our turkeys are like family — you see them every Thanksgiving," said Strock. "We have an extremely loyal clientele. They're in the second generation, some of (our customers) here."

Kent said that when she ran the business, his mother "knew every customer by their first name, could tell the family history, who was sick and where they worked. Customers really appreciate when you get to know them, they don't feel like they're just another number standing in line at the counter."

The turkeys are individually hand-picked by weight for customers at the on-site 8-foot by 48-foot cooler trailer. The challenges remaining for the Strock family are to develop and maintain customer loyalty.

Strock also manages his hog roasting business, Scent-Sational Pignic, begun in 1982. What started as one roaster grew into 12 roasters, which has experienced "14 consecutive years of growth," he said. Now, Strock helps conduct about 150 roasts during the summer.

At the roasts, Strock said that "75 percent of the time they make you feel like you're part of the party." The swine roaster business makes up a large percentage of the entire farm's gross sales receipts.

(Strock's swine operation and his leadership of the state pork producers council was the first-page featured story in the Feb. 15, 1992 issue of Lancaster Farming.)

The biggest challenge at "turkey time" according to Strock is keeping things from backing up during the hectic sales season.

"Although we can't take care of everybody at once," said Strock, "we treat each customer as personally and personally as we possibly can."

Scott Cooper, center, was recognized by York DHIA members for his service as a director and county president of the testing cooperative. Offering congratulations were York County Dairy Princess Tanya Thoman and Pennsylvania DHIA general manager David Slusser.

The Walker family's Walk-Le farms earned four top honors at the annual York DHIA awards program. Representing the family were son Brad, Brenda and Leroy Walker.

Winners of York DHIA Awards Announced

JOYCE BUYP

York Co. Correspondent
SHREWSBURY (York Co.) — Walk-Le Farms snagged four of the top awards for York County DHIA for the 1996 testing year, recognized at the production testing cooperative's annual business and presentations dinner.

The registered Holstein operation, owned by Leory and Brenda Walker and their children Brad, Greg and Michelle took their first sweep of the several production categories since starting their herd in 1990.

Walk-Le's rolling herd average on the 100-cow herd at their Thomasville farm was 25,522 milk, 936 fat, 817 protein on 3X testing. That earned the Walker family top honors in overall Herd Management category with a 142-point score, after also taking first place in the high herd in milk, protein, and most improved in protein production over 600-pounds categories.

Perennial York DHIA winners Bob and Rodney Smyser's Richlawn Farms, York, earned top certificates in the high lifetime production category. Their herd member, Jane, took both honors after completing 12 lactations totalling 301,320 pounds milk and 9,554 pounds protein. They scored the top three animals in both high lifetime milk and protein awards divisions.

A double set of awards also went to Woodbine Farms, the George Knight family of Airville, with three of the top five animals in both high 305-day milk and protein categories.

High lifetime milk recognition, for an animal no longer in production, went to Tayacres, the Donnell Taylor family, Delta. Their former herd member, Peggy, completed 15 lactations with a combined milk production of 242,667 pounds.

Continuing a sweep of several years, Carolyn and Ed Calhoun, Glen Rock, topped the low somatic cell count category with a year average of 102,000 SCC score.

Claiming the honor for most improved herd in protein, under 600 pounds, was Perrydell Farms, York, with a rolling herd average protein jump of 61 pounds.

During the business meeting, three directors were elected to the York County DHIA board. Serving for the next three years will be Glen Anderson, East Prospect, Ed Calhoun, Glen Rock, and David Myers, Wellsville. Recognition was extended to outgoing directors Scott Cooper and Melvin Marks.

In his president's report, Cooper reviewed DHIA accomplishments and changes for the last 12 months.

"We need to get out of the awards program and to the bottom line," Cooper quoted an observation on DHIA heard at one of the meetings he attended as the county president. Information and updates from the state DHIA were presented by regional director Neil McCullough, regional manager David Shenk, and general manager David Slusser.

Slusser noted that Pennsylvania's will be the first DHIA program to become involved in the Internet system. A data base, Hiefernnet, is being assembled which will enable users to market and/or purchase young stock via the computer network.

"It's one way we can help our small family farms in Pennsylvania," noted Slusser. He projected that future joint ventures with other DHIA and farm organizations will continue to keep the program an effective and useful one for the state's dairy industry.

Chester 4-H Dairy Club Holds Awards Banquet

GUTHRIESVILLE (Chester Co.) — The Chester County 4-H dairy and dairy goat awards banquet was held on Nov. 13 at the East Brandywine Fire Hall.

A roast beef dinner was served to 127 4-H'ers and their families and friends. The Chester Valley Dairy Club was in charge and various 4-H members of the club conducted the meeting with Ben Hendricks, Phoenixville, serving as the emcee.

Three Chester County dairy maids, Crystal Kolb, Erica Lloyd and Julie Sollenberger, were recognized for their role in promoting the dairy industry in the county.

The awards section of the program began with Charlie Wollaston presenting the fitting and showing awards that were won by the youth at the Unionville dairy show in October.

Walter Wurster then began the main trophy presentation with the 4-H Dairy Goat awards. Trophies were presented to the high individual project book scores in each club based on the quality and completeness of their book and their performance at the county roundup in July.

Veronica Bates, Gradyville, captured the high achievement award for the Chester County Kids Club. In the New London Club, Jessica Bohmier, New London, had the top project award.

Awards were also presented to the fitting and showing champions and the breed champions from the Chester County 4-H Dairy Goat Roundup this past summer.

member Vicky Hewitt, Spring City, with her Holstein Senior 2-year-old project animal MS Hewitts F Paul Blizzard.

The scores for the top award were extremely close this year and the runners-up — Meredith Baily, Christy Guest, Erica Lloyd and Julie Sollenberger — were congratulated.

Other achievement award winners were Misty Gawrys, Pottstown, of the Tri-Community Dairy Club with the first year trophy. In the Manor Dairy Club, Kathryn Bates, Gradyville, was the winner with Robert Petrovich, Cochranville, taking first year honors. Meredith Baily, West Chester, captured the award in the Chester Valley Club while Leah Walton, Kennett Square, was the first year winner.

Production awards, based on mature equivalent, 305-day records, with twice per day milking, were given to the top entries in five breeds.

The Ayrshire winner for milk and protein was Exchange Miracle Freckles with 17,212 lbs. of milk and protein., Warwick Manor Sarge Robin, with 21,778 lbs. of milk and 706 lbs. of protein.

Jazz producing 16,785 lbs. of milk and 466 lbs. of protein.

Trophies were also given out to the 1996 4-H Dairy Round-Up Show winners and fitting and showing champions.

Russ Albright from the Avondale office of Keystone Farm Credit presented Farm Credit Awards to dairy members for excellence in a wide variety of 4-H activities.

Jody Hewitt, Spring City, won the senior award in 4-H dairy, a $50 savings bond. A $25 cash award went to Julie Sollenberger, Spring City, as the junior winner.

In the 4-H dairy goat division, Jason Wagner, Spring City, received the $50 savings bond, with Jessica Bohmier, New London, receiving the $25 cash award.

Albright commented on the development of the new 4-H center which recently dedicated a multi-purpose 200-ft. by 80-ft. building that will be used for youth activities and especially for roundups and a fair in 1997.

An outdoor horse show-ring is also to be ready next year.

He thanked the 4-H families for their help in raising funds for the project and asked that they continue to solicit donations so that additional buildings and facilities can be developed at the center.

Walter Wurster, recently retired Chester County Extension agent, was honored by the 4-H dairy leaders and members and received a large basket of gifts, including dairy snacks, cookies, candy, a decorative china pie plate and a dining gift certificate for the William Penn Inn near Norristown. The Chester County Kids Dairy Goat Club gave him a card with $25 enclosed.

The Manor Dairy Club presented the entertainment for the evening which included a Pennsylvania Dutch storyteller, Dan Martin from Cumberland County. The evening concluded with a square dance.

Chester County 4-H Dairy Club production award recipients are, from the left, Meredith Baily in the Ayrshire breed, Becky Baily, in the Linebacks, Kevin Sollenberger in the Guernsey breed, Erica Lloyd in the Jersey breed, and Angela Barlow in the Holstein breed.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

GEORGE F.W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — In a previous article, my discussion about increasing feed intake in dairy animals was fairly general. I'll devote this article to specifics.

Under our region's predominant dairy cattle management system—loose housing or free-stall housing with free-choice feeding silage bunks and hay racks—the decisive factors influencing feed intake are related to animal behavior and the provision of physical facilities, specifically social dominance, competition for feed, feeding strategies, animal grouping, and patterns of animal traffic.

If there is no individual feeding, at least of the grain supplement, in the milking parlor or at electronic feeding stations, and the grain supplement is part of a "total mixed ration" (TMR), then the dairy farmer must group cows with similar levels of production or stage of lactation, especially in larger herds.

Many dairy farmers with herd sizes between 50 and 300 cows have difficulty deciding on the overriding need for cow grouping.

This means that if only one group exists, all cows are offered the same TMR feed, regardless of whether a cow is a high or low milker, skinny or fat; all cows get the same TMR.

Presumably, their possible overeating hurts neither them nor the farmer's pocketbook, which is not true in most cases.

Of course, there are disadvantages to cow grouping other than subdividing and fencing.

Cows must be moved in and out of groups, depending on their lactation status and changing level of production. This moving of cows into another group causes animal behavior problems of social dominance until the new cow is accepted into her own rank in the new group. The result can be reduced feed intake and, temporarily, less production.

Of course, grouping cows requires different formulation of TMR for each group's need.

Grouping of open, breeding, pregnant and springing heifers is more often and more easily practiced.

However, it is both important and profitable to bring springing heifers into a milking group three weeks before calving. This will help the animals to start transition feeding and introduce them to milking facilities, free stalls and routes, thus overcoming their natural fear.

In some recent studies, first-calf heifers in their own group ate significantly more and produced more milk than when mixed in with older cows.

In work at Nebraska and from our own work here at the University of Delaware, a checklist was developed to ensure a more profitable feeding system. To assure maximum feed intake, consider the following questions.

For feeding management: Is the feed storage easily accessible? Are the feed amounts inventoried to cover a 12-month need? Is the delivery of feeds to all groups easy? Is feed waste and refusal no more than 5 percent daily? Are the feeds accurately weighed into the troughs according to the formulations and calculations?

For cow movement: Do cows move easily and gently from the parlor without sharp turns? Are concrete alleys and areas rough for good footing or are they wet, slippery and poorly grooved? Do cows have access to feeds (freely and without fighting) immediately after milking? Is the feeding area in shade in summer and sheltered in winter? Is time away from clean, fresh water and feeds less than 6 hours daily? Do cows have nearby, easy access to water when on pasture away from buildings? Have cows been accurately weighed or at least taped for correct ration calculations during different stages of the lactation? Has body condition of each cow been determined at different stages of lactation?

For feeding facilities: Is silage, hay and TMR bunk space adequate and at least 2-2.5 linear feet/cow? Is available water clean, fresh and not too cold in winter for less than 20 cows per water station? Are feed bunk and water facilities in good repair and without slippery aprons, rough edges and surfaces? Are feed bunk and water facilities sheltered against sun, rain and freezing deterioration of the feeds, especially TMR? Are feeding facilities able to provide feeding more than twice daily?

For feed quality at the bunk: Is particle size of the forage feeds of adequate fiber length and more than 15 percent more than 2 inches long? Is TMR uniformly mixed every day? Is TMR fed at least twice per day? Is the feed pushed near the cows frequently? Are the feeds free from molds, of low temperature and good palatability and appetizing fragrance all day long or at least until the next meal? Is the ration between 15 percent and 50 percent moisture? Does the ration have at least 17 percent fiber content and a significant portion of more than 1 inch in length? Is the ration properly balanced between rumen available and unavailable protein and carbohydrates? Does the ration have the right energy density and protein ratio for the high or the low milking group? Does the ration contain at least 2 to 4 ounces of minerals per normal average cow feed intake per day? Is a separate grain supplement fed at less than 5 to 7 pounds per meal and more than twice per day? Is the grain supplement calculated to be between 2.5 and 3.5 pound milk per pound of grain? Is the daily forage intake as dry matter between 1.8 percent and 2.5 percent of body weight? Is forage composition tested at least 4 times per year and the ration balance calculated accordingly? Is refused feed removed regularly and not building up in mangers and feed bunks? What is the composition of the refused feed indicating any selection by cows of parts of the ration?

For animal conditions: Do any cows have foot and leg problems hindering them from free mobility at the feed bunk and hay rack? Are cows properly ruminating and cud-chewing at least half of the herd or group at any one time? Is the manure consistency not too firm and not too soupy, with good green-brown color, without too many corn kernels and without offensive odors? Is the hair coat of the cows smooth, slick, shiny, clean and free from rough appearance? Are cows breathing normally without cough or nasal discharge? Are their eyes looking bright and lively not dull or tired?

Are cows quietly moving without haste or fear and not slipping on the concrete surfaces? Even when some cows are in heat and are mounting each other, are they still on sure-footed surfaces?

These questions should stimulate thinking about whether your conditions are up to checklist standards. Of course, individual feeding will always be superior to any kind of group feeding, or at least the combination of individual grain feeding with the free-choice feeding of hay and silage. In either case, profits will be derived from using this checklist.

Maryland Scientist Wins National Award

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that Charles L. Staines, Jr., an entomologist in the department's Plant Protection Section, has received the Carlson Award from the National Plant Board honoring his distinguished work in the field of regulatory plant protection.

The National Plant Board (NPB) established the award in remembrance of the late Iowa State entomologist and former NPB President Carl Carlson. Staines is the third recipient of the award. He received an inscribed wooden plaque plus a $250 cash award.

"This is a tremendous national honor for our own Charles Staines. He does an excellent job on a daily basis of making Maryland's nursery inspection program one of the best in the nation. The nursery industry is growing rapidly in our state and it has an outstanding reputation for the high quality of its product, due in large part to the efforts of Charles and our other inspectors. They work with the industry to protect the state's nursery stock from exotic or harmful pests," Riley said.

Staines also has been instrumental in establishing the Maryland Certified Professional Horticulturist program designed to enhance the professionalism of those employed in the nursery industry. To date, more than 500 individuals have been certified at the basic level. Some 100 people have earned advanced certification in the categories of plant identification, pests and pest management, herbaceous perennials or landscape contracting. This voluntary certification program has received national recognition and has been used as a model by many other states.

Staines has also been active in developing successful biological control and integrated pest management programs to control such unwanted pests as the cereal leaf beetle, alfalfa weevil, and Mexican bean beetle. His expertise has also been used to identify beetles that have the potential to act as biological control agents for weeds such as thistles.

Charles has been with the department since 1973. During that time he has attained numerous accomplishments that have benefited the agricultural industry.

With deregulation dealers predict 1/2 of the dealers will go out of business. Doesn't this make the system more efficient and less costly (if 1/2 of the dealers provide the same total milk processing)? I hope you didn't intend to suggest consumers pay "dues" (i.e. minimum retail milk prices) to preserve excess dealers.

At the hearing on the proposed bill to eliminate retail milk prices the dealer attorney told the committee "Do what is best for the consumer and the farmer." He then admitted that retail milk prices will probably go down with deregulation. I suggest the deregulation benefit to consumers is clear (and likewise for school districts, where either student milk prices can be lowered or more food provided).

As to dairy farmers, the present "super profit" to large supermarkets hurts the farmer because milk consumption in Pa. is about 10 percent/yr. less than the national average. Lower retail milk prices will=more consumption=a better blend price and thus a higher milk check.

Speaking of farmers, the dealers tried to persuade the committee that lower retail milk prices will mean retailers will try to get a better price from the dealers (and the dealers in turn will try to pay the farmer less) — I disagree — why will major supermarket retailers now making over 10 percent on milk feel a need to ask dealers for a "better" price if the industry standard for supermarkets is a 1 percent profit on each food dollar.

Liquor, cigarettes and milk are the only price controlled products in Pennsylvania. The government does not tell us the minimum price we must pay for any other food product. Set milk free.

Alan Bair Honored By County Agents

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Alan Bair was chosen by the Pennsylvania Association of County Agricultural Agents as the 1996 Honorary County Agent. The award is given to honor individuals who have been exceptional friends and supporters of Pennsylvania Agriculture.

Alan started his career as a Lancaster County extension agent working on adult and youth dairy programs. He was quickly recognized for his dairy knowledge, and as an effective communicator, educator, and agricultural leader.

Alan has spent most of his career with Atlantic Breeders' Cooperative in Lancaster as director of member and public relations. Under Alan's direction, Atlantic provided agricultural leadership to the dairy industry. They supported training opportunities for extension agents and supported extension programs in agriculture and 4-H. Some of Alan's achievements include: Service on the agriculture committee of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce where he was instrumental in helping to create a new and unique position: Coordinator of Agricultural Services, the first of its kind in Pennsylvania and perhaps in the nation. Leadership in starting the Ag Horizons conference which helps members of the agricultural education community to understand and debate current agricultural issues. He has provided strong leadership to the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives including serving as president from 1993 to 1995. He has been active in and provided leadership to the member and public relations committee of the National Council of Farm Cooperatives. He has been the superintendent of the Pennsylvania All-American Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest since 1981.

Alan has chosen to stay active in Pennsylvania agriculture by starting a new position as director of dairy relations with Penn State University and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. He will be serving as a facilitator to bring together the diverse elements of the industry, and find common ground to increase the viability and expansion of Pennsylvania's dairy industry.

College Charts Course

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Following an 11.4 percent increase in state funding for agricultural research and cooperative extension in fiscal 1996-1997, leaders in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences are setting priorities and charting a course for the future.

"We are very grateful for the recent increases in our research and extension budgets," said Theodore R. Alter, interim dean. "They will allow us to infuse new energy into our college and to begin a reversal of the slow decline that we have struggled with over the past six years."

Flat state funding for the College of Agricultural Sciences between 1990 and 1996 contributed to the loss of 163 faculty, cooperative extension and staff support positions statewide.

"One of our most urgent needs is to rebuild our human capital so that we can continue to provide the highest quality research and education programs and serve our students and Pennsylvania's citizens, communities, businesses and industries," Alter said.

Alter recently lifted a hiring freeze that had been in effect for more than a year. "This new funding will enable us to fill about 40 percent of the total positions lost since 1990 in those areas where need is the most critical," Alter said. "The process to begin filling some of these positions is already underway."

Alter said the funding also will allow the college to enhance its research and education activities to ensure the sustainability of Pennsylvania's agriculture, food system, and environment and to improve the quality of life for Pennsylvanians.

"We will now be able to reinvest in our research and education programs and improve our ability to deliver important information to the people of Pennsylvania through cooperative extension," Alter said. He said the increase in both funding lines is especially timely in light of the university's desire to increase public access to Penn State expertise that will help to address industry and societal needs across the commonwealth.

Alter says one priority is to assist the state's mushroom industry, which produces nearly half of the nation's mushroom supply but faces several significant challenges.

"Trichoderma, or green mold, is an epidemic that is severely threatening Pennsylvania's number-one cash crop," Alter said. "Producers also are struggling to control highly offensive odors generated when the growing medium used in mushroom production is composted, and to find better ways to dispose of used mushroom compost."

"The increase in our research budget will enable the college to undertake a major six-year research effort to help ensure the mushroom industry's survival," said Alter. "This initiative also may help to address similar problems faced in the production of other Pennsylvania commodities."

Alter said the new funding will allow other vital research and extension programs to be maintained or enhanced. "Our efforts to protect water quality and utilize our natural resources more effectively will be ongoing," he said. "We will continue helping agricultural producers to reduce reliance on pesticides, to meet nutrient management requirements and to improve the economic viability of their operations. We also will continue to help Pennsylvania's processing industries to generate products and develop markets."

"Our programs designed to improve the health, safety and skills of individuals, families, children, and the elderly will be improved and expanded. And we will step up our efforts to assist communities in their economic development efforts and to find solutions to the problems that arise as rural and urban areas merge."

NFU Applauds Action

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Farmers Union (NFU) is applauding action announced recently by U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Secretary Dan Glickman to improve cheese price reporting.

The department pledged to improve the technique and scope of prices reported nationwide. It will also conduct an internal review of USDA responsibility for oversight and regulatory authority over the National Cheese Exchange (NCE).

"Farmers Union is very pleased with Secretary Glickman's decision to address the issue of cheese pricing," said NFU President Leland Swenson. "Less than 1 percent of all cheese in the nation is traded during one half-hour per week on the Exchange, yet it sets the price for 90 percent of the nation's cheese, which determines producer milk prices."

The USDA announcement came following three consecutive price drops in NCE cheese prices that began Oct. 18 and have cumulatively totalled a price decline of nearly 40 cents per pound. The decline translates into a drop in producer milk prices of around $4 per hundredweight.

"Since we are down 1.3 million cows in the U.S. — 1.5 percent below 1995 levels — it is tough to believe the drop was caused by market forces," wrote Swenson and Wisconsin Farmers Union President Bill Brey in a letter to Secretary Glickman following the price plummet that began Oct. 18.

In the Oct. 24 letter to USDA, the Farmers Union leaders also asserted that the three-year study and congressional scrutiny of NCE had served as a form of oversight, but ceased when with the Federal Trade Commission ruled this September that NCE was not violating trading rules. "Since that time, milk prices have dropped sharply," the letter stated.

USDA will implement a program that will report a "probability-based national average cheddar cheese price," using prices collected by the National Agricultural Statistics Service.

Animal Science Major Rides

only 11. On vacation in Hershey, Pa., she took her first trail ride. She was hooked.

"I fell in love with riding," she remembers.

From then on, her life began to revolve around horses, with riding lessons, weekly excursions to the race track, and the purchase of her first horse when she was 14. Now the tall, blue-eyed 21-year-old owns three horses: Fabian, an 11-year-old Danish warmblood, and two thoroughbreds, Alex and Moon Mist.

Cian began learning dressage when she was 15.

"Dressage requires that the horse execute precision movements, such as skipping and moving sideways," she said. "It's like a ballroom dance. The goal is to make it look like the horse is performing without being directed, and to do that, the horse and rider have to work as one."

Inevitably, there are times when horse and rider aren't in sync. Two years ago Cian fell off Fabian and landed on her tailbone, an accident that would have paralyzed her if not for a blood tumor that protected her spinal cord. But a couple of months later, she was back in the saddle.

Majoring in animal science with a concentration in pre-veterinary medicine at UD's College of Agricultural Sciences, Cian has learned to pace herself to fit in both studying and riding. Every day she makes the 40-minute drive to West Grove, Pa., to work with Fabian and Alex. When preparing for competition, she takes lessons three times a week. And competing demands traveling, especially in the spring.

"It was crazy at first, but now I'm used to it. I've been going to school part time," Cian said, "so I'll probably take five or six years to get my degree. But I'm halfway there."

"Kim's a competitive athlete and is just shy of taking a full-time courseload," said Dr. Lesa Griffiths, her professor and adviser. "She'll have multiple career options when she completes her degree."

Now that Cian has achieved her goal of competing in the Young Riders National Championship, she plans to take it easy for a few months. But there's no reining in her enthusiasm. She hopes to compete in the World Cup and the Olympics one day.

"I might be 80 when I get there," she said, "but I think I'll make it."

CHRISTMAS TREES:
THE GOOD, THE BAD
AND THE UGLY

Celebrate thanksgiving by thinking green — not greenbacks but a fresh Christmas tree.

Choose a farm-raised tree by selecting and cutting a tree at a local Christmas tree farm. For Pennsylvania grown trees, write for a guide called, "Pennsylvania Grown Christmas Tree Guide." It identifies Choose and Cut Farms, retail tree lots, gift shops, and farm stands. For a free copy, write to: the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers' Association, 44 Cessna Drive, Halifax, PA 17032.

In Pennsylvania, more than 1,600 Christmas tree farms raise trees including your favorites:

Scotch pine, Austrian pine, Colorado blue spruce, white spruce, Norway spruce, douglas fir, fraser fir, concolor fir, and balsam fir. White pine is the only native Pennsylvania tree. These trees were cut a hundred years ago as "wildings" from the forests of Pennsylvania.

A high quality Christmas tree starts from a seed collected from carefully selected wild tree or from orchard tree. Once collected, seeds are sown in a nursery bed and left to grow for 1 to 3 years before they are lifted and sorted for field planting.

Five to 25 years after field planting, depending on species, Christmas trees are about 6 to 7 feet in height. Christmas tree growers raise about 1,000 trees per acre. The harvest season begins in earnest in early November and continues almost to Christmas Day.

To purchase the freshest trees off a tree lot, select the tree during daylight hours. After looking at the overall health and shape of all the trees on the lot, choose one or two that have especially attractive green or blue (depending on species) color.

To test the freshness of the tree, roll the needles on a branch at mid-height in your hands. Start at the branch tips and move inward. If any needles fall off, the tree is already dried out. Only needles that fall off near the trunk are considered OK. Also check the stump. A moist, sappy stump indicates a newly cut tree.

The best Christmas trees have a conical symmetrical shape, a pleasing fragrance and branches sturdy enough to hold lights and ornaments. Only a fresh tree is fire resistant. Avoid placing near sources of heat (fireplace, radiator, air ducts, TV sets, etc.). White spruces drop their needles when dry, pines do not.

If you think someone might be tempted to cut and steal an evergreen tree from your property, consider this: Make your trees less appealing by applying the "ugly" mix.

Heat 2 gallons of water to 63 degrees Fahrenheit and pour it into a large container, preferably an aluminum one. In a separate container, mix 20 ounces of hydrated lime with 4 ounces of an antidesiccant like Wilt-pruf, until a uniform paste is produced. Fold the paste slowly into the water. When the mixture is an even, lightly milky color, add 2 bottles of pink (or other brightly colored) food coloring. Blend the mixture until it is uniform in color.

ing. Blend the mixture until it is uniform in color.

On a warm, dry day, spray or splatter the mix onto trees you want to protect. Rain will gradually wash it off.

The above was written by Thomas S. Becker, Extension Agent-Horticulture. Questions concerning this article can be directed to him at 717-840-7408.

Growing Green Manure

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Green manure is a crop that's grown and then incorporated into the soil to increase organic matter content and soil fertility. According to Susan J. Goldsworthy, extension horticulturist, a cover crop is basically the same as a green manure, but is also grown to protect against soil erosion and/or to control weeds in another crop. Living mulch is another term used for a crop grown with another to control weeds, shade the soil, and serve other functions of a regular mulch.

Three green manure crops that do well when sown in the fall are hairy vetch (Vicia villosa), crimson clover (Trifolium incarnatum) and winter rye (Secale cereale). The first 2 also have the advantage of being legumes that fix atmospheric nitrogen in nodules on their roots. Generally, green manure crops will grow for several weeks in the fall, remain in the garden over winter, and be tilled into the soil in the spring.

Fifteen million.
Fifteen million? For that?

"That" was a painting. According to the early-morning television news, the painting had sold on a $15 million bid the prior day at an art auction.

Now, this painting wasn't a pretty landscape of meadows, woodlands or countryside. It wasn't a city streetscape or a noted building or any of the world's numerous natural or manmade wonders. It wasn't a portrait of a famous individual - no Washington crossing the Delaware or Whistler's Mother or the Mona Lisa with her elusive hint of a smile.

It was a woman. A sort of modernistic, stylized, impressionist type of a painting of a female of the species.

Fifteen million? For that? Obviously, I'll never make it as an art connoisseur.

Moments after laughing in disbelief at the sensibility of the $15 million art wonder, I glanced outside the kitchen window. Painted across the canvas of the early-morning sky was one of the most artistic of sunrises, lavish with streaks and splashes of lavender, neon-pink, deep fuchsia shades and streaks of oranges.

And the colors reflected and shimmered on the still waters of the ponds in the meadow.

Now that was a picture.

Up through the misty, dark green of the meadow, single-file, came the heifer herd, enroute to breakfast at the feed bunk. Each of the distinctive black-and-white markings, no two exactly alike, shaped a moving pattern against the dark pasture backdrop. Puffs of steam rose above the plodding parade, joining in the mist floating up from the warmer-than-air water of the ponds.

The white-tail doe and her twins that eased their way out of the edge of the woods on August evenings, their rusty hue shining in the setting sun against the brilliant green of the alfalfa and corn.

Or, a dramatic portrait of Mother Nature on the verge of a mid-summer tantrum, her countenance frightening in the steely-gray of an awesome thundercloud, curling edges of whiteness at the forefront, and anger sparking jabs of lightning.

Or, flashes of red against the white-tipped branches of our towering, backyard pine, the cardinal pair scattering snow as they arrive for breakfast. And a matching picture that usually follows, altered

SPOKANE, Wash. — Building upon the 130-year tradition of representing family issues, delegates to the National Grange voted to support grandparents' rights at their annual convention, November 11-17, in Spokane.

Delegates from 37 Grange states voted to support policies that would grant legal surrogate decision-making authority to only by the electric blue feathers of the jays screaming as they land.

Or, the V-formation of Canada geese that winged across a bright orange moon rising out of the eastern sky on an evening some time ago, a real-life scene so haunting it etched itself in my memory probably for all time.

Now, those are pictures.

We even have still lifes, like that of the pair of lavender chrysanthemum blooms in a small, cut-glass vase, framed by the kitchen window. They're the last, remaining blooms of the flowering season, a poignant, delicately-scented farewell to warmer times.

And if it's portraits that you favor, we have a set of companion prints entitled "The Snoozers" - The Farmer stretched out on the couch, sound asleep after a long day in the fields and the cat curled up on the furnace register, blocking 90 percent of the warm air easing up through the vent.

Now, these are pictures. And they're free as part of our farm lifestyle. Of course, if someone wants to bid $15 million ...

grandparent caregivers in the absence of responsible parents or stepparents, to protect the visitation rights of grandparents and to grant consideration first to grandparents in custodial situations when a child is legally removed from his or her parents.

Recent census figures showed that over 4,000,000 children in the United States currently live in a home with one or more grandparent caregiver. About one-third of these children are cared for solely by their grandparent(s), either by court order or on an informal basis.

Studies show that substance addiction, child abuse, and female incarceration are among factors that are resulting in the deterioration of the nuclear family. Grandparents of children affected by one or more of these factors function as surrogate parents with all the same responsibilities, but, too often, without adequate assistance. Many grandparents live on fixed incomes ($20,000 or less), and are denied assistance. They attempt to cope with tremendous burdens. Challenges facing these caregivers cover a wide range of issues, including medical, financial and respite care.

"When the National Grange looked at this issue, we knew that as an organization who represents families, we needed to become involved," said Kermit W. Richardson, Master (president) of the National Grange. "These grandparents are our members, our neighbors, our extended family, and they need the support of the Grange."

Founded in 1867, the National Grange is the nation's oldest general farm organization. There are approximately 300,000 members in 37 states.

Farm Bureau Rolls With Ag Promotion Ideas

LOU ANN GOOD

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) —

The farm community knows that the public has little knowledge of where food comes from and of the expense and difficulties in providing a safe product.

For this reason, more and more farmers are becoming involved in community activities in order to educate the non-farming public.

To ease planning and offer ideas, the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) has formed a resource committee.

Anna and Bill Swailes, who chair the committee called State Promotion and Education, said the members compiled a resource book filled with ideas.

"We don't encourage every county to have the same promotion. What works in one county might not in another. It's important to identify the need and tailor the event to that," said Mrs. Swailes.

During PFB's annual meeting, spokespersons from several counties shared the success they have had with promotional events.

Diane Schlauch from Lehigh County reported on the mini farm show that is held annually at Trexler Mall. She said that 48,396 people visited the mall that day. Although not every visitor participated in the agricultural activities, thousands did.

The agriculture-sponsored events included a petting zoo, where 4-H'ers handed out coloring books of farm animals with explanations of all the uses derived from livestock. Samples of meats, potatoes, milk, cheese, and fruit were offered by county commodities. A giant sundae served 2,600 persons. Displays of antique tractors, agricultural products, and country crafters drew lots of attention. A country music and square dance was held.

In addition, $1,900 was raised through a mini-auction of agricultural products. These funds were used to send five teachers to the week-long Ag in the Classroom Seminar held annually at Penn State.

"Believe me, we need to get the ag story in the classroom," Schlauch said. "Animal activists are there. Many of the teachers are telling children not to eat meat and are giving the wrong story to our children."

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) —

"It's been estimated that more than 27,000 children and youth under age 20 experience severe farm-related injuries and 300 die each year," said Scott Whitman, agricultural safety communication specialist at Purdue University.

Whitman held a workshop during the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau meeting held in Hershey last week to help parents prevent child injuries.

One factor leading to injuries is that children often help with chores that are inappropriate for their age.

Whitman identified the characteristics common to age levels and the potential dangers they face.

"The most common age ranges for farm child fatalities are 2-4 year-olds and 12-15 year-olds," Whitman said.

Tractors are involved in 50 percent of child farm fatalities.

Was it worth all the effort?

"You bet!" Schlauch said.

She referred to one teacher who had been influenced by animal activists, but after attending an Ag in the Classroom workshop, was convinced that farmers do care about their animals, and she is now an enthusiastic supporter of the agricultural community.

The teacher is reported to have said about the Ag in the Classroom Seminar, "It has changed my negative image of farmers into seeing them as hardworking stewards of the land who care about livestock and the community."

Craig Sweger, president of the Washington County Farm Bureau, told how their county turned a potentially negative situation into a positive one. When the county commissioners with farm background lost the election and the three who assumed office had no agricultural ties, the agricultural community was concerned.

"We decided we needed to establish a dialogue with the county commissioners," Sweger said.

A catered luncheon featuring county agricultural products was held at the courthouse. A resource book listing the county's agricultural statistics and those pertaining toward making it the state's number one industry was given to each commissioner. Ag commodity baskets were also given. The county commissioners were so impressed that they requested more commodity baskets to hand out to visitors.

But, more importantly, the commissioners have become enthusiastic supporters of agriculture and at their suggestion, a prime location was made available as a roadside market.

"We took this negative situation and through cooperation with all the agricultural groups turned it into a positive one," Sweger said.

George Reichard and Titus Martin of Franklin County reported on the success they had in working with the county fire and rescue life support team.

Farmers had the perception that more medic training and coordination was needed among the rescue teams when dealing with farm accidents.

They drew up a map pinpointing each farm in case of emergency. In one demonstration, local farm equipment dealers and farmers

Among the younger age groups, tractor injuries result from being run over.

"Because kids live and play on working farms, they can get run over," Whitman said. He stressed the need to make certain areas off limits and the need to closely supervise children when outside.

Rules must be set and followed. Riding on machinery should be prohibited according to Whitman.

In the older years, tractor overturns account for 39 percent of farm injuries.

The tradition of instilling an early work ethic sometimes places children and youth in positions where they are asked to perform tasks beyond their physical, mental, or emotional abilities.

"Parents often assume children understand how to operate machinery or other complex tasks, though they may have never actually received training," said Whitman.

portrayed tractor rollover and implement accidents. When the rescue workers attempted to extract the simulated victims, the workers discovered they did not have adequate equipment and valuable time was lost.

Because the rescue teams realized the potential problems if such an accident should happen, more suitable equipment was purchased and increased training was provided for rescue.

The rescue effort was also a time that built relationships between the agricultural and non-farming community, Reichard said.

Grants are available to fund farm safety programs. Also the Penn State Cooperative Extension and many farm-related organizations will work together on community projects of this sort.

For more information about the grants or for a copy of the idea book, contact the Swailes at Box 175, Willow Hill, PA 17271 or call (717) 349-2257.

Dr. George Conneman, economist from Cornell University, discusses the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau meeting with Jan Carson, communications director.

Three-year-old Nathan already likes to help hoe turnips and pull weeds on his parents, Tracie and Aaron Sturges, vegetable farm in Beaver County. During the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the Sturges attended a session on child development stages and implications for injury prevention to ensure a safe working environment for their son.

Is Shopping On Black Friday And Deer Hunting The Same?

I know many of you have drug yourselves out at 5 a.m. the day after Thanksgiving to join the shopping frenzy that has often been referred to as "Black Friday."

For those who are true die hard holiday shoppers, this is the day that separates the lookers from the buyers. It is not a day for the meek and the timid. You either love it or swear you'll never submit yourself to the experience again. There is no slow lane for a shopping cart on Black Friday, you either move with the traffic or stay in the car.

For those of you who have family members who do not truly appreciate your zeal for shopping on Black Friday, it may help them to understand by comparing your enthusiasm and commitment to the hunter on the first day of deer season. If you have never given any thought to the similarities between deer hunting and shopping the day after Thanksgiving,

First of all consider the amount of preparation that goes into deer hunting. A hunter cleans the gun, "shoots the gun in," makes lists of supplies needed, buys new clothing, and engages in the ultimate search for just the right pair of boots that will be comfortable, warm, and dry despite rain, snow, or sleet.

There are a lot of preparations that must take place before you go shopping not unlike getting ready for the first day of deer season. You need to go to the bank, secure a child care provider for the entire day (no young children allowed on this trip), assemble the appropriate credit cards, make a safe place on you to keep receipts and a dollar tally as you go, find a group of friends with similar ambitions, and make "the list." The shopping list should include: sizes, preferred colors, where sales are located, prices, store locations, and an itinerary. Yes, you just don't start at one store and mindlessly wander. You need a game plan.

Getting up at 4:30 a.m. in the dark while your family innocently sleeps, you get in your car to pick up your shopping team mates. On the way, the list and shopping plan are shared and any last minute changes are made. You arrive at the first store at 5:30 a.m. and notice the parking lot is full. That's okay, you've come prepared to walk. Each person in your shopping team has their mission and you synchronize your watches accordingly.

Once inside, one person secures a shopping cart for your team. Go directly to the first item on the list. Upon finding the desired item, pick it up and put it in your cart. Please note that you will need to make an immediate decision when you find the item or else someone else will undoubtedly be hauling it away in a cart while you ponder. If you hesitate, you may miss the buy of the day or the "big one" which is how deer hunters often call it.

Establish one friend in your party to stand in the mile-long line while you and the others find the rest of your items. This is where the similarity between driving for deer comes to mind. Once you get through the check out line, you reach the door and find that the sun has come up and you say to yourself, "Yes! It's going to be a great day! Off to the mall!"

By this time, the mall has just opened its doors. Again the shopping driving team goes into action. Armed with their lists, coupons, store flyers, and at least one large shopping bag, the day long endurance quest begins. Each person has a strategic point that they must cover in a specific amount of time. A meeting time and place is again agreed upon and a back up plan for delays in case of long lines. The experienced Black Friday shopper understands this and thrives on the excitement of shopping under such conditions. In fact, the Black Friday shopper finds the sound of a "15 minute blue light special" announcement down right invigorating. There is nothing more satisfying to a shopper as getting the last special on the shelf. Indeed, this is a real self-esteem booster! An accomplishment your shopping team will be proud of and of which you can boast for many more shopping seasons.

At lunch time, the shopping team meets to compare notes. They now decide what items need to be bought, assess the shopping climate, and develop a possible new strategy to secure the rest of the items on their lists. This is also a time to share the conquests and the gifts that got away in someone else's shopping bag.

At the end of the day, the shopping team meets at the entrance of the mall and decides if their goals have been reached. Even though the check-out lines were long, the stores were hot, and the sales may not have always been the greatest, the team assesses the trophies of the day. More than likely, each person will have found something that made the trip worthwhile.

For most of us Black Friday shoppers, it's the camaraderie of the team that makes it all worthwhile. Like deer hunters, we have fine tuned our skills and this is the one day of the year where we can best put them to use. If you ask deer hunters why they hunt the first day of deer season, you will usually hear that it really isn't killing a deer that makes them brave the cold and the crowded woods year after year, but it is the total experience of being with friends, communing with nature, and continuing a tradition. Is Black Friday shopping much different? You decide. Have a wonderful holiday season!

If you see me in one of those long check out lines, give me a "thumbs up."

If your deer hunting friends ask what you are doing, just say that it's a holiday shopping support sign.

Warm Up With Chili

Chili and/or chili con carne has been a popular one dish meal for a long time, even before the widespread availability of Mexican foods. And everyone has her own recipe among the many hundreds that cookbooks have to offer.

However, how does one determine if it's nutritious?

The answer to this question depends upon how you make your chili. Specifically, what kind of meat do you use if you use meat?

Of course, if you use ground beef, the leaner the variety the less fat. If you use cubed beef, choose top or bottom round or chuck, cuts that are less tender and less expensive than more marbled, tender cuts.

Some people even use ground turkey in their chili, but make sure it comes from white meat, for the dark has as much fat as ground round.

Second to consider is, if you use beans in your chili, what kind? Using kidney beans can significantly add to the nutritional quality of the dish. A half-cup of canned kidney beans contains more than eight grams of fiber, about a third of the fiber you should get in a day.

In addition, the same amount also contains nearly 65 micrograms of folic acid, about a third of what you should be consuming daily.

The other main ingredient in chili is tomatoes, which offer more than one-quarter of the vitamin C you need each day in just a half-cup. Tomato products also are a good source of vitamin A and potassium.

So continue to serve those meals of chili which can be very nutritious; just be careful what ingredients you put in it and what toppings you add on top if calories are a consideration. If they aren't, the sky's the limit!

CHILI CHIP DIP

1 lb. lean ground beef
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 envelope chili seasoning
16-ounce container regular or fat free sour cream
16-ounce container salsa
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped peppers, green, red, or yellow
2 cups chopped lettuce
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
Restaurant Style corn chips

Brown ground beef; then add tomato sauce and seasonings. Layer the dip onto a platter in this order: ground beef mixture; sour cream; salsa; onions and peppers; chopped lettuce; shredded cheddar cheese. Serve with the corn chips.

BLACK BEAN TURKEY CHILI

1 lb. dry black beans
1½ lbs. skinless turkey breast, cut into small pieces
2 cups red pepper chopped
1½ cups onion chopped
4 jalapenos, chopped
4 garlic cloves, minced
4 tablespoons vegetable oil
¼ cup chili powder
2 teaspoons cumin seed
1 teaspoon ground coriander
4 tomatoes, chopped
1 cup water or non-alcoholic beer

Soak beans in cold water for two hours. Drain. Put the beans in a pot and cover with two inches of fresh water. Simmer until beans are tender. Drain and set aside.

Saute red pepper, onion, jalapeno and garlic in 2 tablespoons vegetable oil. Add chili powder, cumin seed, coriander and beans. Cook approximately 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Place half the bean mixture in food processor and process until smooth. Return smooth mixture to the other half.

Brown turkey in 2 tablespoons vegetable oil, until almost done, add tomatoes and cook an additional 5 minutes. Add turkey to bean mixture, add water or non-alcoholic beer and simmer 15 more minutes.

Before serving, garnish with sour cream on top.

Note: to eliminate lengthy soaking and cooking time, substitute canned beans for dry beans: 3 (15-16 oz.) cans black beans, drained and rinsed.

CHILI

1 lb. extra lean ground beef
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped peppers
16-ounce can V-8 juice
1 envelope chili seasoning
2 16-ounce cans tomatoes, chopped, juice included
2 16-ounce cans dark red kidney beans
¾ cup shredded cheddar cheese
1 cup sour cream

In 4-quart Dutch oven brown the beef and stir in onions, celery, and peppers. Reduce heat to simmer and keep cooking for 15-20 minutes, stirring frequently.

Add seasoning, V-8 juice, tomatoes, and beans. Simmer for another half hour.

Serve hot with cheese sprinkled on top and a dollop of sour cream in the middle.

1 cup water
15-ounce can tomato sauce
1 package (1½ -ounce) chili seasoning mix
15-ounce can black beans, undrained
8-ounce can kidney beans, undrained
8-ounce can whole kernel corn, undrained
Dumplings
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese (2 ounces)

Dumplings

Mix chicken, water, tomato sauce and seasoning mix in 4-quart Dutch oven. Heat to boiling; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in remaining ingredients except dumplings and cheese.

Prepare dumplings. Heat chili to boiling; reduce heat to low. Drop dough by 12 spoonfuls onto hot chili. Cook uncovered 10 minutes. Cover and cook 10 minutes longer. Sprinkle with cheese. Cover and cook about 3 minutes or until cheese is melted. 6 servings.

Dumpling dough: mix 1½ cups prepared bake mix, ½ cup cornmeal and ¾ cup milk until soft dough forms.

WAGON WHEEL CHILI

1 lb. lean ground beef
1 medium onion, chopped
1½ tablespoons chili powder
1 tablespoon oil
1 clove garlic minced
¼ teaspoon ground cumin seed
salt and pepper to taste
½ teaspoon dried oregano leaves
¼ to ½ teaspoon cayenne pepper
16-ounce can red kidney beans
1 cup beef broth
1 cup multi-colored wagon wheel pasta or rotini

Using heavy kettle or Dutch oven over medium high, heat oil. Add onion, garlic and beef. Cook, stirring 5 minutes or until meat is browned. Add the chili powder, cumin, oregano, cayenne pepper, salt, pepper, and broken up tomatoes with their liquid. Simmer until paste is tender, about 20-23 minutes when flavors have blended. Makes about 4 servings.

CHILI PIE

1 tablespoon oil
1 large clove garlic, minced
6 oz. Italian sausage
salt and pepper to taste
8-ounce can tomato sauce
1½ cups shredded Cheddar cheese
¼ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon dried oregano leaves
TOPPING
¾ cup milk
¾ cup flour
2 tablespoons cornmeal
1 tablespoon oil
1 egg

Heat oil in 9" skillet or deep pie pan that can be used in the oven. Saute onion until soft. Stir in garlic; saute 1 minute. Remove sausage from casing. Cook, breaking up meat, about 10 minutes. Pour off any excess grease.

Add ground beef and brown, stir in spices, then tomato sauce/. Bring mixture to a simmer. Remove from heat and sprinkle with cheese.

In a bowl, combine milk, flour, cornmeal, egg and oil. Beat vigorously with a mixer. Pour topping over mixture in skillet. Bake 425 degrees for 25 minutes or until topping is golden and puffy. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

LAYERED PINTO BEAN DIP

Pinto Bean Layer
2 15-ounce cans pinto beans, rinsed, drained and divided
4 green onions, cut into 1-inch pieces
4 teaspoons fresh lime juice
¼ cup dairy sour cream
Corn-Cheese Layer
1½ cups cooked or canned corn, well-drained
1½ cups (6 ounces) shredded jalapeno Jack cheese
½ cup chopped red pepper
3 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro
½ teaspoon each: chili powder, cumin
¼ teaspoon pepper
Top Layer
1½ cups dairy sour cream
tortilla chips

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Place half the beans, onions and lime juice in work bowl of food processor or blender. Cover. Puree until smooth. Spoon into 2-quart rectangular baking dish. Stir in remaining half of beans and sour cream. Spread evenly in bottom of dish.

For corn-cheese layer, combine all ingredients; mix well. Spread over bean layer. For top layer, spread sour cream over corn-cheese layer. Bake 15-20 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Serve immediately with tortilla chips.

Are you looking for a new way to use leftover turkey this year? Debra Bryant, Wayne County Extension agent suggests you try chopped leftover turkey in place of hamburger in your favorite Spanish Rice recipe or try the one listed below:

TURKEY SPANISH RICE

¼ cup onion, chopped
¼ cup green pepper, chopped
2 tablespoons sliced celery
¼ cup uncooked rice
¼ teaspoon butter or margarine
1 cup canned tomatoes
¾ cup cooked, diced turkey
¼ cup water
¼ teaspoon chili powder
salt and pepper to taste
1 bay leaf

Cook vegetables and rice in margarine in a small saucepan until onion begins to brown — about 4 minutes. Break up large pieces of tomato and add with remaining ingredients to rice mixture. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and cook slowly until rice is tender, about 25 minutes. Stir as needed to prevent sticking. Remove bay leaf before serving. Makes 2 servings, 215 calories each.

Consuming Thoughts

Even a quick once-over of today's cookbooks or the food pages in newspapers or magazines will convince you of one fact: Pumpkin isn't just for pies anymore!

If breakfast is getting boring and the kids are asking for "something different" after school, or if you're looking for a special treat for that leisurely Sunday brunch, here are a few suggestions that use pumpkin.

Try pumpkin pancakes or waffles, pumpkin doughnuts or apple-pumpkin fritters, pumpkin raisin muffins, pumpkin nut bread or pumpkin coffee cake.

Make pumpkin the centerpiece of the meal with pumpkin pasta, pumpkin chili, Szechwan-style pumpkin-sauced chicken, pumpkin crepes or pumpkin quiche. And for a happy ending, try pumpkin cake roll, pumpkin cheesecake, pumpkin souffle, pumpkin pudding, a frozen pumpkin bombe or pumpkin ice cream pie.

As you can see, the natural, delicious taste of pumpkin is being feature in recipes for breakfast, lunch and dinner - and for every part of every meal, from appetizers to desserts.

And even the oldest favorite of all - pumpkin pie - is arriving on the scene in some new and delectable forms - as chiffon pie; in pecan-pumpkin, pumpkin-apple and mincemeat-pumpkin variations; and in calorie-trimmed version for weight-watching pumpkin-eaters. Pumpkin has only 80 calories per one cup serving.

Cooks, both professional and amateur, are discovering the versatility of the subtle taste and smooth texture of pumpkin. It adds extra moisture to a wide variety of baked goods, as well as contributing its rich golden color to please the eye. It works well in savory main dishes to blend the flavorful ingredients beautifully. And because it is rich in Vitamin A and other nutrients such as Vitamin C, iron and riboflavin - but low in calories, sodium and fat, pumpkin is also being recognized as a tasty and nutritious food for millions of health-conscious weight-watchers. It contains less than 5 mg. of sodium and only a trace (1 gram) of fat.

So, be creative and remember that pumpkin - "isn't just for pies anymore."

Kids Will Be Kids

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Farm Women Society 8 met on November 13 at Donegal Presbyterian Church in Mount Joy. Gloria Straub gave devotions and hostesses were Margaret Heisey, Alice Walter, Nellie Blake, Martha Drager, Gloria Straub and Mary Anne Spangler.

Members entertained Society No. 19 from the East Petersburg area to a apple dumpling lunch. An organ program was given by Anne Gecelosky, organist of Donegal Presbyterian Church. The December 4 meeting will be at the home of Vernetta Wallander in Maytown at 1:30 p.m.

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women Society 20 met at the home of Pauline Reinhart with Dorothy Crawford as co-hostess on Thursday, November 7. Following the brunch Dorothy read the 100th Psalm. She also read "Thanks for Thanksgiving" and the poem "God Cares."

Guest speaker was Kenneth Herr, Quarryville mayor. He stated to become mayor you volunteer but then must be elected. His first term was in 1985 and a term is four years. He is not privileged to vote at the meetings. He may perform wedding ceremonies and this he really enjoys. He has had 93 since he is in office and in many different locations such as the homes, on lawns, in parks, in the Boro Council Room, in the living room of his home, and many others. It is his duty to oversee the operation of the police department.

The president, Marie Foote, presided at the short business meeting and Dorothy reported three cards sent in the past month. For the Roll Call each responded with their family tradition for Thanksgiving. The Christmas Party will be December 14 at 6:30 at the Quarryville Fire Hall.

The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner" to meet in December at the home of Marie Foote with Anna Mary Groff and Barbara Stone as co-hostesses.

Berks Society 6

The Berks County Society of Farm Women Group #6 celebrated Farm Women Day with lunch at Golden Oaks Country Club in October.

Members will be helping with bingo at Berks Heim in November. A monetary donation will also be sent to Berks Heim's Santa's Corner.

Next month will be craft night at the home of Ilona Houpp.

QUESTION - Molly Ann Mohler is looking for a recipe for monkey face cookies.

QUESTION — Mrs. Burkholder writes that several years ago she was served a rice dish that she hasn't forgotten. It was rice with bits of broccoli and had a very buttery taste. Another ingredient was slivered almonds. Can anybody help with a recipe?

QUESTION — Eva White of Delmar, Delaware, is looking for a recipe for hog pudding. She knows that the ingredients are fresh pork and liver cooked until tender, seasoned and ground together. It can be eaten cold in sandwiches or heated, in which case it goes to pieces. Her grandmother served this on buckwheat cakes or pancakes.

QUESTION — A reader from Easton, Pa., is looking for a recipe for a sweet tea biscuit that has currents in them.

QUESTION — Sophie Benedict of Friendsville is looking for a recipe for sloppy joes that isn't spicy or hot.

QUESTION — Mary Reed of Duncannon, Pa., is looking for a recipe for caramel custard pie.

QUESTION — Lucy Lowe of Claymont, Delaware, is looking for a recipe for lemon impossible pie.

QUESTION — A reader is looking for recipes or a cookbook of Jello flavored gelatins.

QUESTION — Donna Fite of Peach Bottom is looking for a recipe for a peanut butter sauce for ice-cream. She is also looking for an old-fashioned lemon pie with a criss-cross crust. Does anyone have a recipe?

QUESTION — Sally Snyder, Rebuck, would like a recipe for caramel apple dip similar to the brand T. Marzettis. It has a sweetened condensed milk base.

QUESTION — Phyllis Stauffer of Carlisle would like recipes for breads that are often sold at bake shops or orchard stands. One she particularly likes is vegetable bread. It looks crumbly on top and is a softer bread.

QUESTION — Sandy Gutshall of Harrisburg writes that her non-profit group is interested in making apple butter and applesauce in the large open kettle. She'd like to know the ingredients and the time and people it takes.

QUESTION — Margie Hartman of Pittsburgh would like to know if anyone has a recipe for New Year's Pretzel.

QUESTION — Cel Brown of West Chester wants the recipe for a bread mix like the ones in the store called Daily Bread Company's. These mixes can be made up ahead.

QUESTION — J. Jackson, Huntingdon, would like a recipe for a Lebanese cookie called Mammoul (she isn't sure of the spelling). The cookies contain pistachio nuts and are a high rising cookie. A neighbor made these when Ms. Jackson was a child.

QUESTION — Thomas Martin, Strasburg, writes that he is looking for a recipe for frozen strawberry yogurt, which combines yogurt and strawberry Jell-O.

QUESTION — A faithful New York reader would like a recipe for grilled chicken breast that tastes like that served by Shady Maple on Thursdays.

QUESTION — Shirley Lilley, Baltimore, Md., would like a recipe for gingerbread square cupcakes and frosting (a dollop on top of each) such as marketed by Valley Pride Bakery each fall season and sold in the Chambersburg area.

QUESTION — Yvonne Musser, Lancaster, said she would like a recipe for buttermilk salad like they serve at Akron Restaurant in Akron.

QUESTION — Madeline Van Leuven of Mantua, N.J., asks for rabbit meat recipes as her husband hunts them, but she doesn't have many recipes.

QUESTION — Mary Shank, York, wanted a recipe for spice cake that calls for pepper (the special ingredient that makes it so good). She believes it also calls for buttermilk. The recipe is approximately 35 years old, and she can't find it anywhere. Thanks to June Howes of Keymar, Maryland, for the recipe.

Black Pepper Spice Cake

2½ cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon each: ground cloves and ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
¾ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
¾ cup light-brown sugar
3 large eggs
1 cup sour milk

Brown Sugar Seven-Minute Frosting

Sift the first 3 ingredients together and set aside. Combine the next 6 ingredients and mix well. Gradually blend in sugars. Beat in eggs, 1 at a time. Stir in ¼ of the flour mixture. Then add ½ cup sour milk. Repeat, using remaining ¾ flour mixture and ½ cup milk. Turn batter into 3 well-greased, lightly floured 9-inch round cake pans. Bake in preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 minutes or until a toothpick comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes in pans. Turn out onto wire racks. Yields 9-inch 3 layer cake.

Brown Sugar Seven-Minute Frosting

¾ cup light or dark brown sugar
1 large egg white
2 tablespoons water
¼ teaspoon ground mace
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar dash salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Place all ingredients in the top of a double boiler. Set over the bottom of a double boiler filled to a depth of about 2 inches with boiling water. Beat with an electric mixer until frosting stands in soft peaks, keeping the water boiling rapidly. Remove from heat and continue beating until frosting stands in very stiff peaks. Spread over cooled cake.

ANSWER — Loris Crone, Dover, was looking for recipes for kiwi jam or jelly or recipes such as kiwi-strawberry or banana combinations. Anna Newswanger supplies Freezer Kiwi-Lime Jam.

Freezer Kiwi-Lime Jam

8 8-ounce jelly glasses or containers
1 large lime
12 medium-sized kiwi fruit (about 2½ lbs.)
5 cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1¼ oz. package powdered fruit pectin

Grate peel from lime. Squeeze enough juice from lime to measure 1 tablespoon. Cut kiwifruit crosswise in half. With spoon, scoop out pulp in large bowl. Thoroughly crush fruit to make 3 cups. Stir in sugar, salt, lime juice, and grated lime peel until thoroughly mixed; let stand 10 minutes.

In 1-quart saucepan over medium heat, heat fruit pectin and ¾ cup water to boiling. Boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Stir pectin mixture into fruit mixture. Continued stirring 3 minutes, no less. A few sugar crystals will remain.

Ladle mix into containers to ½ -inch from top. Cover with lids. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours or until set. Freeze. Or use within three weeks; store in refrigerator.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know how to can applesauce. Molly Ann Mohler says this recipe comes from her late mother's apple recipe collection called The Apple Lady's Special Recipes and Inspirational Poems, which she has self-published.

Canned Applesauce

8 tart apples
½ cup water
½ cup sugar
Cinnamon

For the best flavor, use a couple varieties of apples. Quarter apples without paring or coring and cook with water, covered, over medium heat until apples are mushy. Put through a good mill to strain out cores and skin. Add sugar and cinnamon to taste. Makes 6 servings.

To can: after washing the jars, place them in large canning kettle or a hot-water bath in a large kettle with a wire rack. Fill with water to two inches above jars and boil for 10 minutes. Turn off the heat, but keep the jars in the hot water until ready to fill. Pour applesauce into hot, sterilized jars and seal, cover to two inches above jars again, and boil for 10 minutes.

Wearing rubber gloves, carefully remove the jars with tongs onto wire cake racks, leaving enough space between them so they can cool quickly. Vacuum seal lids should not be screwed down or turned upside-down. On jars with rubber rings, either screw down the lid or lower the short bail and prove the seal by inverting the jar for a few seconds. If liquid escapes, the seal is defective and may be replaced and processed again, or use it within a day or two.

COWBOY CHILI

¾ lb. extra lean ground beef
2 cloves garlic, minced
15-ounces stewed tomatoes
1 teaspoon cumin
1 medium onion, chopped
1 cup beef broth
2 tablespoons chili pepper
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon oregano leaves
15-ounce can pinto beans

Crumble beef into heavy pot or Dutch oven. Add the onion and garlic. Cook over medium heat until meat is brown. Add remaining ingredients except beans and simmer for 1 hour. Cover, stirring occasionally. Add beans and simmer 30 minutes more. Add water if chili is too thick. Adjust seasonings if necessary. Serves 4.

BUSY DAY CHILI

1 lb. lean ground beef
2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon oil
2 tablespoons instant onion
2 teaspoons salt
6 teaspoons chili powder
10½ ounces condensed tomato soup

½ teaspoon tarragon leaves
2 teaspoons black pepper
1/16 teaspoon cayenne
1/16 teaspoon garlic powder
2 cups red kidney beans, undrained

Brown beef in hot oil. Add remaining ingredients. Stir after each addition. Simmer for 30 minutes.

Sarah Clark
Everett, Pa.

CHILI

¾ cup olive oil
2 large onions, coarsely chopped (about 4 cups)
1 lb. loose sweet Italian sausage
4 lbs. lean ground beef
1 tablespoon black pepper
12-ounce can tomato sauce
2 tablespoons instant garlic
2 tablespoons ground cumin
3 tablespoons chili powder
2 teaspoons salt or to taste
2 tablespoons hot pepper sauce
2 tablespoons crumbled dried oregano flakes
3 cans Italian plum tomatoes, drained

½ cup red cooking sherry
2 16-ounce cans red kidney beans, drained

Heat olive oil in a large, heavy skillet or Dutch oven. Add onions and cook over low heat until tender but not brown. Break up sausage meat and ground beef in small pieces. Add to onions. Cook until loose meat loses its pinkness. Drain excess fat. Stir meat as it browns. Stir in remaining ingredients after each one is added. Reduce heat and simmer uncovered 1 hour. Adjust seasons if necessary. Makes 4 quarts.

Cook's Question Corner

ANSWER — Mrs.

David Weidenhammer, Bernville, wanted recipes or hints for preparing goat meat (Chevon). She asks if it can be canned. Do you prepare it as beef? Thanks to JoAnne Van Nuys of Belle Mead, N.J., here is some information. Information she sends says that it can be canned since it is usually available only in spring.

Cut Chevon into 1½-inch cubes. Simmer in water to cover just until the color changes. Pack into hot 1 quart mason jars, leaving 1 inch headspace. Fill to within 1 inch of top with the juice the meat was cooked in. To with 1 teaspoon canning salt and cover with new lids. Seal. Process in pressure canner for 90 minutes at 10 lbs. pressure.

Sallsbury Chevon Steak

Soak 5 slices bread in goat milk. Squeeze out. Mix in 1 lb. ground Chevon with 2 stalks chopped celery, 1 grated carrot, 1 chopped onion, 1 clove minced garlic, salt and pepper to taste.

Shape into 6 patties. Brown on both sides in a small amount of oil. Mix 1 cup tomato sauce and 1 cup water. Pour over patties. Simmer 10 minutes. Serves 6. This can also be shaped into a loaf and baked for 45 minutes at 325 degrees.

Meatballs and Zucchini

Shape 1 lb. ground Chevon into 1-inch balls, and sprinkle with salt. Heat 2 tablespoons vegetable oil or goat butter in a heavy skillet. Add meatballs, browning on all sides. Drain on paper.

Slice 1 lb. zucchini ¼ to ½ inch thick and dip in flour. Heat 3 tablespoons oil in the skillet. Arrange zucchini slices in one layer in skillet, browning lightly on both sides...lower heat and brown ½ cup coarsely chopped onion. Add ½ cup crushed tomatoes and ½ cup goat milk (at room temperature) and meatballs. Cover and simmer 10-12 minutes or until meatballs are cooked.

Cheese-Topped Chevon Pie

Melt 2 tablespoons shortening. Add 1 lb. chopped or diced cooked Chevon, 2 tablespoons minced onions and 1 teaspoon salt, and brown. Add 2 cups stewed tomatoes, 2 tablespoons flour and ½ teaspoon oregano. Then cook until thickened.

Add 1 cup cooked carrots and 1 cup cooked peas. Pour into 2-3 qt. casserole.

Blend 1 cup flour with 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons goat butter, ¼ cup grated goat cheese and ½ cup goat milk, to make a soft dough. Spread evenly over the meat/vegetable mixture with a spatula. Bake 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Serve hot. Serves 6.

ANSWER — Chloe Zemek, Johnson City, N.Y., wanted a recipe for apple brandy jelly. Molly Ann Mohler also supplied this apple recipe (see above).

APPLE BRANDY JELLY

3 lbs. tart, firm apples

3-5 cups half water, half brandy

Sugar

2 tablespoons lemon juice

Rose geranium leaves if desired

Very ripe or overripe fruit doesn't have enough pectin for good jelling. Wash apples thoroughly, remove and discard stem and blossom ends. Cut apples in quarters and add slices, peels, and cores into 4-quart saucepan. Add cold water to barely cover. Cover and bring to a boil and simmer without stirring until apples are soft, 10-15 minutes. Mash apples with a potato masher and cook 5 more minutes. Turn into a jelly bag or a pouch made with several layers of cheesecloth, suspend over a bowl, and let it drip for several hours. Don't squeeze the bag. There should be 3-5 cups juice. (Save the pulp in the jelly bag for jam.)

Measure and bring juice to a boil in cleaned saucepan and cook for 10 minutes. Add lemon juice to taste. Add ¾ cup sugar for every cup of juice and boil until two drops from a metal spoon form a sheet when dropped. Remove from heat, skim jelly, and pour into hot jelly glasses in which a washed rose geranium leaf has been placed. Cover with a thin layer of melted paraffin and cool. Add another layer of paraffin after cooling to complete the seal. Makes 5 or 6 glasses.

Ms. Mohler, 2930 Cowley Way, #308, San Diego, CA 92117, says there are many more (over 100) delicious apple recipes in her mother's cookbook and some very lovely poems, and a portion of the proceeds go to the Cancer Society.

ANSWER — Isabel Shafer, Liverpool, wanted a recipe for the lettuce dressing used at the Vicksburg Community supper. The lettuce dressing has bacon and milk in it and is poured over cold lettuce. Sarah Clark of Everett supplies this recipe:

Hot Bacon Dressing

2 teaspoons sugar

2½ tablespoons flour

2 tablespoons butter

1 whole egg or 2 egg yolks

¾ cup milk

½ cup cider vinegar

4 strips of bacon fried crisp, drained and crumbled

Save 1 tablespoon bacon grease to add to butter.

Beat egg or egg yolk along with milk. Stir in sugar and carefully stir in flour to melted grease and butter, adding vinegar. Stir carefully milk and eggs to mixture so as not to curdle. Keep stirring as you pour in mixture. Lower heat and keep stirring until mixture thickens. Serve over lettuce.

Kids Korner

A Kid Who Just Fiddles Around

GAY BROWNLEE

Somerset Co. Correspondent

GARRETT (Somerset Co.) — Emily Engleka (Engle-ka) is 13 years old. She gets away with more fiddling around than most kids do, and nobody scolds her for it.

That's because when Emily fiddles around, she isn't fooling around or wasting time. She is playing bluegrass or gospel music on her fiddle.

She enjoys bluegrass fiddle contests and has won a trophy or prize money at quite a few of them.

For instance, on November 9, she won a third place in the Mid-Atlantic Grand Fiddle Contest held in Cumberland, Md. Earlier, she had won honors at the Pennsylvania State Fiddle Competition, and had won her school's talent contest at Rockwood.

Emily was eight years old when she decided she wanted a fiddle of her own. She had seen and heard bluegrass music played on television and really liked it.

Her parents, Nathan C. and Sharon Engleka agreed to buy the fiddle and bow. They are very glad now that Emily knew what she wanted.

Ellinor Benedict who lives near Grantsville, Md. is Emily's instructor. Mrs. Benedict absolutely loves music and plays more than one instrument.

The funny part is Mrs. Benedict, at one time, played classical music in a big city orchestra. Because the instrument she played was a cello, Mrs. Benedict was a professional cellist. But the fiddle? No indeed, she didn't play it.

The violin and the fiddle have the same shape.

"Physically, there's no difference in a fiddle and a violin," explained Mrs. Benedict. "If you are playing the Beethoven Violin Concerto, it's a violin. If you are playing 'Turkey In the Straw,' it's a fiddle," she said, laughing because it sounded confusing.

When she moved to Garrett County, Md., and no longer played in an orchestra, Mrs. Benedict became interested in learning to play the fiddle. Soon she began teaching it to pupils.

Emily and her mother saw the advertisement and arranged for her lessons to begin.

Low and behold, when they first arrived Mrs. Benedict wasn't even home. She had forgotten about the date. The next week, though, she remembered.

The teacher and pupil got along really well. Soon they were entering the same bluegrass fiddle contests. They played in different age divisions.

Emily, who earns high grades, and completes her homework in school, admits her tummy still flutters before she goes on stage.

"I'm nervous before I get up," she says, "but once I'm up, I'm fine."

It also helps her when people clap, she said, and when they say nice things to her.

"I like to pick out my relation in the audience," she says. It's really nice to have them come out."

It may be small, but a fiddle has some amazing parts. A frog, for instance, and a bow made with long hairs from a horse. These can be torn. There's a scroll, peg box, sound holes, tail piece, strings, finger boards, a bridge where the strings pass over, and those aren't all of them.

"You have to get the bow over the middle and stay away from the finger board," Mrs. Benedict tells Emily who is preparing for the next contest in two days.

They play a waltz. Mrs. Benedict is at the piano.

Holding the fiddle between her chin and shoulder, Emily crosses the strings with her bow. It's a new sound.

Her teacher likes what she hears.

"That's very, very good," she says to Emily.

"Emily is working out her own style which is very good," she told Emily's mom.

"She is already doing things with her fiddle that she wasn't taught by her teacher."

For the contest Emily must be ready to play seven tunes, like a hoedown, a waltz, and several others.

She, her mom, and her grandma play in a group with three other people.

Her mom plays the banjo. Grandma plays the guitar.

Someday, Emily will play a violin. She will learn how to play classical music. She would like that, she says.

Emily has other interests besides playing the fiddle.

"I like basketball and drawing Disney cartoons," she says. "I like school, too."

Even her chores, she doesn't mind doing. Sometimes, instead of watching television, she finds other interesting things to do.

After school she gives food and water to the dogs.

She helps to clean the house. During the summer, she mows the grass and pulls weeds in the garden.

Emily has one brother who is age five. His name is Aaron.

Emily Engleka, 13, began taking fiddle lessons five years ago and loves going to contests.

Emily Engleka concentrates on playing her fiddle as instructor Ellinor Benedict plays the piano.

WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK

Why do people call a football a pigskin?

As the story goes, the very first footballs were made out of pigskin. That might be true, but the people at Wilson Sporting Goods — the company that makes all the footballs used in pro games — say their footballs have always been made out of cow leather.

Either way, the pigskin nickname highlights pigs' versatility. Juicy pork chops or sizzling bacon might be the first things that come to mind when someone mentions pork, but there are thousands of other uses for the snout-nosed fellows. (And all their other barnyard friends, too.)

People with diabetes depend on insulin made from animals. Doctors can use hog heart valves to replace damaged human heart valves. Pigs' hair makes great artists brushes, and their leather (pigskin) can be made into beautiful clothes, shoes and gloves.

But wait — there's more. Floor waxes, weed killers, cement, oil polishes, rubber, crayons, cosmetics, chalk, matches and linoleum are just a few things that use the fats and acids found in hogs.

And have you ever used good china at a special meal? If it was bone china, it was made from dried pig bones!

So the next time you hear someone talk about the pigskin picks of the day, you'll know the football might not be made out of pigskin, but a lot of other things are.

Scientifically yours,

Ida's Notebook

by
Ida Risser

When I get together with my sisters, I hear about the trips they have taken and the trips that are planned. They go to the New England states for the fall foliage and also take big bicycle trips. They talk of the 500 miles they have put on their bicycles. Of course, they are all younger than I am.

It seems that Allen and I can keep ourselves too busy right here at home. He helps to fill silo, put up new spouting and sometimes he does tractor work too. I cook meals, clean house and mend clothes besides some church work.

Yesterday I potted several parsley plants as I like some on the kitchen windowsill for winter use. And, I arranged the straw flowers, that I raised, in a small basket with some pretty leaves that I dried. My eight kinds of flower bulbs are stored and labeled. Although, I'm sure that I would know them by their shape in the spring when I replant them.

When I find the time, I reread old letters that relatives wrote in the early 1900s. It is interesting to look at the postcards that were exchanged. No telephones and no autos and so cards were sent and trolleys used for transportation.

I've written a diary every day since I was 17 years old. And, would you believe it, I find it is quite interesting to read about our activities when our children were young. How we managed all of those 4-H meetings I do not know as one or the other always had something to do or a place to go. As they say, it makes me tired just to read about those years.

Today a busy day is when our three grandchildren come and stay with us for a while.

Penn's Agri-Women Elect Officers

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Penn's Agri-Women elected officers recently at their annual meeting and set an agenda for the coming year.

For the first time ever, PAW will man a booth at the state Farm Show for a full week featuring the American Agri-Women display that shows the areas of activity and their presence in 35 states. Officers will be creating a new brochure for membership purposes and will be dedicating the efforts to the memory of a founding mother Ethel Gross, who with a handful of women began PAW in 1977.

Leading the organization into its 20th years will be president Gail McPherson, New Park; vice president Jean Beck, Hamburg; secretary Carol Ann Gregg, Grove City; and treasurer Barbara Grumbine, Myerstown. Past President Pat Sueck, Ariville will also serve on the Executive Committee.

Agri-Women Appointed To EPA Committee

MISSION, Texas — American Agri-Women, a national coalition of farm, ranch and allied business individuals and organizations has been appointed to the newly formed Environmental Protection Agency advisory committee for the implementation of the Food Quality Protection Act of 1996. The new law will fundamentally reform the nation's outdated Delaney zero risk standard in terms of pesticide tolerances, and utilize science based, state of the art testing to strengthen the U.S. food safety net. AAW President Jean Pettibone, of Kanorado, Kansas, is representing AAW as one of the production agriculture groups on the committee. The Food Quality Protection Act was signed by President Clinton on August 3, of this year after passing in both Houses of Congress unopposed.

Jean Pettibone stated, "It took more than 10 years of concentrated effort to get this new legislation passed by the Congress to update the standards for food safety. The hard work really begins as we work with EPA and the members of the committee to interpret the true intent of the legislation, as well as to ensure that it will be soundly based on the latest scientific standards to secure our nation's safe food supply. Critical to the purpose of the committee will be the protection of our precious natural resources from which every farmer relies upon to make a living and to assure that it is workable for our nation as a whole."

For more information regarding AAW, contact Jean Pettibone at (913) 399-2204 or at 6835 Road 2, Kanorado, Kansas 67741-9400.

Research Supports Correlation

The genetic correlation between marbling and beef tenderness is supported by four recent research projects. Three of them were conducted by scientists at the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center, and the other by Oklahoma State University researchers.

Readers need to understand a few terms before reviewing the results of the research. Following are the definitions:

Tenderness: The difficulty or ease a trained taste panel has in chewing a portion of steak. The genetic component involves the animal's ability to marble, level of calpastatin or enzyme activity, and the amount and kind of connective tissue; whereas the environmental component involves cooking techniques and the amount of aging to which the carcass has been subjected.

Shear Force: Machine measured pressure required to force a shaft through a portion of cooked steak.

Heritability: That portion of a trait passed from parent to offspring.

Marbling: The amount of fat interspersed with the lean in the rib eye muscle. The genetic component involves the steer's genetic ability to marble plus the environmental component involving how he was fed and handled.

Correlation: The relationship between two traits. The range in correlations is from -1.0 to +1.0 with zero meaning no relationship and 1.0 depicting a perfect relationship.

a. Genetic Correlation: The genetic relationship between the genetic components of marbling and tenderness.

b. Phenotypic Relationship: The sum of the relationship between the total components both genetic and environmental, between marbling and tenderness.

Mt. Springs 4-H'ers Learn Importance Of Choices

GAY BROWNLEE

Somerset Co. Correspondent
NEW CENTERVILLE

(Somerset Co.) — "4-H is an excellent choice," Dr. Bob Bastian told members of the Mt. Springs 4-H Club and their parents. He explained that animal and other 4-H projects teach kids about the responsibility and accountability, associated with their own choices.

"If we don't put good ideas into kids' heads, we won't get good out," Bastian said. "We'll get junk."

And putting good ideas into kids' heads doesn't happen instantaneously. The process happens slowly while they are growing up — when they learn to respect the law and gain their sense of patriotism from their parents, he said.

The veterinarian from the Animal Medical Center of Somerset County, Inc. spoke about his personal choice to challenge an incumbent and popular state legislator in the district they are from, on November 5.

When the votes were tallied and the doctor did not succeed, but lost in his attempt to go to the state house of representatives, he could still say: "Neither my wife nor I are sorry," because they had thrown themselves fully into the challenge.

Sometimes, the lessons that teach us the best are those in which we try with all our heart, but fail to accomplish something. And if the good ideas have taken root, there will always be another chance to try again, and probably, to do so with greater confidence than we had the first time around, was the essence of Bastian's words to the group.

Dave Brant, however, seemed to echo the sentiments of many farmers when he remarked that, had Bastian won a seat in Harrisburg, Somerset County farmers would be less one of the fine doctors of veterinary medicine that practice in the area.

The collective group was celebrating at the Milford Grange Hall and throwing a dinner for the supporters of the Mt. Springs 4-H Club.

Amy Schmuck, president, presided over the affair with help from the other officers: Jill Brant, vice president; Bonnie Sanner, secretary; Jesse Brant, treasurer; Tammy Durst and Lindsay Schmuck, reporters.

Other participating club members were Tim Albright, Leanna Beachy, Roni Beachy, Angie Brant, Matthew Brant, Megan Schmuck, Travis Brant, Sanda Durst, Nathan Faidley, Robbie Harrold and Tim Latuch.

Coming Home

There may be times that your child(ren) need to be home alone and may even be the first one in the home. For those times when your child is the first one home both of you will feel much better if you have discussed the situation ahead of time. Following are some questions and guidelines that you can use as a guide for your family discussion.

Ask your child — If you are in charge and the first one to arrive home, what do you do? Get your child's input first, you may be surprised at how much they have thought about this. Be sure to give them credit for coming up with some good ideas.

After discussing what to do, you may want to make up some "rules." Keep these in mind as well:

- If everything looks normal, enter your house and lock the door behind you.
- If something looks different, like an open door or broken window:

1. Do not go inside.
2. Go to a neighbor's and call home to see if a family member arrived home early.
3. If no one answers the phone, call a parent to see if someone was home during the day and find out what to do.

Life Insurance for Kids?

Do you need life insurance for your children? The answer is that you can probably get along without it. The main purpose for carrying life insurance is to provide for dependents in the event of the loss of the income earner or for a method of forced savings. But some people want to take out policies on their children. In most cases there are better ways to use the money.

If the purpose is to cover death expenses, it can be more economical to open a small savings account as an all-purpose fund for the child. If the purpose is to create cash value for later use, again a savings account will usually be better. Cash value policies usually have little build up in value in the first few years because the commission is paid with the premiums in those years. Although there is a tax advantage of not paying income taxes on the build up of interest in the policy, this is off set by the insurance premiums you are paying.

A better use of the money may be to increase the life insurance for the family's primary income earner or to take out a disability insurance policy to cover income loss when the earner is no longer able to work.

Yoder's Tees And More

GAIL STROCK

Mifflin Co. Correspondent

"Anything to promote the farm and farm products," said Johnny B. Peachey, owner and operator of Peach-Vale Farm. A Dairy of Distinction in Mifflin County's Big Valley, Peachey places the name Peach-Vale Farm on hats, shirts and other clothing belonging to the Peachey family. His design includes the reason for the logo in the first place — a picture of a dairy cow. For his personalized logo, Peachey visited Faith Yoder at Yoder's Tees & More.

"We can design a logo no one else has," Yoder says of her farm logo service through her store in the Belle Acres Complex, Belleville. Customers peruse through books filled with designs, mixing, and matching to their own liking.

If customers have simply an idea, Faith draws upon the talents of local artists. These artists fashion an attractive design from customer's ideas. Yoder sends these designs away to be made into transfers. Then she heat transfers the design onto whatever Fruit of the Loom, Hanes, Lee or Jerzees clothing the customer picks out from her store's large selection of tee, sweat, and other types of shirts. Faith requires a minimum order of 12 shirts or hats for custom-made logos.

Faith supplies many area businesses, schools, farms and churches organizations with logo clothing.

shirts through Yoder's Tees & More.

"Personalized shirts or hats make good Christmas gifts," Faith adds. For more on farm logos, call Yoder's Tees and More at (717) 935-5011.

Colorful flags, scented candles, country crafts and home decorations make visiting Tees & More especially nice!

"What we sell here is on consignment," Yoder explains. "I'd like more stuffed items like dolls and bunnies."

Customers will find painted slate, grapevine wreaths, barn-board shelves, iron work and much more.

Faith's overall goal is to provide this area with a store where people can purchase unique gifts at a reasonable price. She's gone beyond that. She's helping farm families promote the business they love through farm logos.

A request for a combine sends Faith looking through the books.

Here's Some Advice On Stuffing A Turkey Safely

WILKES-BARRE (Luzerne Co.) — "To stuff or not to stuff" — that is the question on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Meat and Poultry Hotline. It is an important question to ask as the Thanksgiving holiday draws near, because cooking a home-stuffed turkey can be somewhat riskier than cooking one not stuffed. If the stuffing is not cooked and handled properly, foodborne illness could occur.

"However, with careful preparation and the use of a meat thermometer to ensure that safe temperatures are reached, consumers can safely enjoy the traditional holiday stuffing — inside or outside the bird," said Bessie Berry, Hotline manager.

Checking the stuffing temperature with a thermometer is essential. That's because even if the turkey itself has reached the proper internal temperature of 180 degrees F in the innermost part of the thigh, the stuffing may not have reached the correct temperature of 165 degrees F in its center. It is important to reach this temperature in all part of the stuffing to be sure that foodborne bacteria are destroyed.

Berry also mentions that although a "pop-up" thermometer that comes with many turkeys is one way to judge the bird's doneness, it can't tell you the temperature of the stuffing. A conventional meat thermometer should also be used with stuffed birds.

"After the estimated cooking time has elapsed, a meat thermometer should be inserted in several places, including the innermost part of the thigh and the center of the stuffing, to check the temperatures," Berry said.

If the innermost part of the thigh has reached 180 degrees F, but the stuffing has not reached 165 degrees F, continue roasting the turkey, until the stuffing has reached 165 degrees F, according to Berry. Be aware that during the added cooking necessary to bring the stuffing up to a safe temperature, the meat may become overcooked.

Once the turkey meat and the stuffing have reached the proper temperatures, Berry noted that the bird should be removed from the oven and allowed to "stand" for 20 minutes before removing the stuffing and carving.

"If you are not prepared to use a meat thermometer to measure the internal temperature of the stuffing in the bird, then the stuffing should be cooked outside the turkey," said Berry.

What about frozen turkeys stuffed at a USDA-inspected plant? Berry said that those turkeys purchased frozen at a grocery store should be safe when cooked from the frozen state, but cautioned that the manufacturer's directions should be followed carefully.

Here are some important food safety guidelines to follow:

- Handle raw turkeys safely. Take the turkey home directly from the grocery store. Errands should be run first, before going to the store. At home, place the turkey immediately in the refrigerator or freezer. A fresh turkey should be cooked within two days. Defrost frozen turkeys in the refrigerator, allowing 24 hours for each five pounds.

- For faster thawing, place the frozen turkey in cold water, allowing about 30 minutes per pound. The water should be changed every half hour. A turkey may be defrosted in the microwave if it is large enough, but follow the manufacturer's instructions. Cook immediately after defrosting.

- Prepare stuffing safely. Mix the stuffing just before it goes into the turkey. If more convenient, the wet and dry ingredients can be prepared ahead of time and chilled. Mix the ingredients just before placing the stuffing inside the turkey or in a casserole.

- Stuff the bird properly. The turkey should be stuffed loosely — about $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of stuffing per pound of turkey. This will help allow the stuffing to reach the proper 165 degrees F internal temperature whether the stuffing is in the bird or in a casserole. Use a meat thermometer to be sure. The stuffing should be moist, not dry, since heat destroys bacteria more rapidly in a moist environment.

- Cook at the proper temperature. The stuffed turkey should be placed immediately in a preheated oven set no lower than 325 degrees F. Cooking overnight in a "slow" oven is not recommended since foodborne bacteria can form under these conditions.

- Storing leftovers. Leftovers should be stored within two hours of cooking. Cut the turkey off the bones. Refrigerate the stuffing and the turkey separately in shallow containers. Use leftover turkey within four days; stuffing and gravy, in one or two days.

For more information on preparing the holiday bird, and other food safety and handling, questions concerning meat, poultry and eggs, call the toll-free USDA Meat and Poultry Hotline at (800) 535-4555. In the Washington, D.C. area, the number is (202) 720-3333. Home economists and dietitian food technologists are available from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Eastern Time, year-round. In addition, timely recorded messages are available 24 hours a day, using a telephone "menu." Both numbers are TDD-accessible.

Additional food safety information is available on the USDA Food Safety and Inspection Service homepage. The internet address is: <http://www.usda.gov/fsis>. Consumer information pieces may be received from the Agency's "Fast Fax" by calling (202) 690-3754 or (202) 690-3755.

Ag Extension Book Tells All

AMES, Iowa — Agricultural Extension is a thorough, practical 304-page handbook that explains the purpose, importance, and far-reaching effects of agricultural extension throughout the world. The information presented tells how to establish, communicate, and implement effective agricultural extension programs that address specific needs and long-term goals in any location. The second edition features more than 30 percent revised material from its best-selling first edition.

This new edition is written by two authors with decades of experience teaching undergraduate and postgraduate courses in agricultural extension; conducting extension-related research; and serving as consultants and trainers in field programs in Africa, Asia, and South America.

The editors: Dr. A.W. van den Ban was formerly head of the Department of Extension Education at the Wageningen Agricultural University in the Netherlands and Dr. H.S. Hawkins is senior lecturer in Agricultural Extension at the University of Melbourne, Australia. 304 pp., 6 x 9, illus., paperback, #0-632-04053-X, $25.95. (Continued from Page B16)

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Carmen Healis of Carsonville and Tom Williams of Middletown have each served 20 years as volunteers for Penn State Cooperative Extension's 4-H Program in Dauphin County.

They were recognized at the annual 4-H Achievement Night held recently at the Dauphin County Ag and Natural Resources Center.

Healis began volunteering as a leader in 1976 with the Upper Dauphin 4-H Horse and Pony Club which later became the River Valley Riders 4-H Club. She still serves as a leader of that club. Williams was a longtime leader for the Lower Dauphin 4-H Dairy Club, and serves on the Dauphin County 4-H Program Development Committee.

More than 100 4-H volunteers were recognized for their involvement in the Dauphin County 4-H Program. In addition, more than 150 youth were recognized for their 4-H achievements during the year.

ANSWER — In answer to Clark Whiteleather, who wonders where to buy bittersweet vine, Anna Newswanger writes that the vines are available from Gurney's Seed and Nursery Co., 110 Capitol Street, Yankton, South Dakota 57079. She also has the answer to where to find a fake pie dough recipe, a question posed by M. Burkholder of Ephrata: in the Sept.-Oct. issue of the Country Woman.

ANSWER — A reader writes to answer Helen Phillips of Camden, N.Y. about where to buy a few crates of heavy chickens or roosters. There's a poultry and small animal sale at Root's Country Market and Auction every Tuesday night. The address is 705 Graystone Road, Manheim, Pa. 17545, phone 717-898-0755 or 336-2560. If they can't help, they might be able to suggest some of their New York dealers.

ANSWER — The same reader who knew where to buy the chickens and roosters knows how to remove rust from an iron skillet and how to keep it from reappearing when not in use, a question posed by Rose Diehl of Bloomsburg. Use steel wool, not soap at least 5-10 minutes. Rinse with very hot water and repeat if necessary. Hang to dry completely. After 20 minutes spray with cooking spray. The reader also uses a copper pot and pan brush she gets in the grocery stores.

ANSWER — Scott Sheffer responded to Charles Mason of West Decatur who wanted to know who manufactures expansion tanks for hot water heater. Sheffer says to contact Amtrol, West Warwick, Rhode Island 02893. He says that his was purchased at York Corrugating Plumbing Supply in Shrewsbury, Pa. Their phone number is 717-235-4733.

ANSWER — C. Robert Holmes, Sr., writes about one reader's problem with windows that have excess moisture. He says that as a contractor and remodeler he never saw this problem until last year when one of his customers complained about the problem after he installed vinyl replacement windows in her home, which was built in 1956. Holmes has had a representative from the window company and one from the lumber company where he purchased them. They have tried various ways to correct the problem by using a better grade of caulking, then a vented soffit and recently a vent in the ridge of her roof.

The condensation runs down the windows, and even her walls are now mildewing in some places. Apparently this customer has the problem throughout the year only worse in winter. She heats her house with forced hot air.

Holmes has also contacted a Penn State Extension agent, who is also puzzled. Holmes has questions for the woman who asks the question in You Ask, You Answer and requests that she contact him: C. Robert Holmes, Jr., 291 Mitchell Road, Airville, Pa. 17302, or by calling him and leaving a message if necessary at 717-382-4169.

Another reader responded about the problem of condensation. Her home, too, had this problem. She says the likely cause is either the house is too airtight and/or woodburning stove is drawing moisture out of wood stored in the basement. This moisture goes into the air, and due to airtightness in the house, it has nowhere to go. She also says the moisture problem in her house was on the second floor ceilings and first and second floor windows, where moisture met the coldest air.

For a solution, she says to vent the house. At her house they drilled small holes in the frames of wooden storm windows. They also learned that if storm windows were not put on the second floor windows, the moisture is able to vent there too.

She adds that airtight homes and woodburning stoves don't work well together. The stove needs air circulation to burn efficiently. However, with some adaptations, you can solve the moisture problem. Venting the moisture may cause you to have to burn more wood.

ANY JOB, ANY PLACE, ANY TIME

When not just any tractor will do, see the new Kubota B-Series or Grand L models at your local Kubota dealer.

Let them show you how a new B-Series, or the innovative Grand L-Series, can be the tractor for you in a variety of jobs, places or seasons.

Both the new B's and Grand L's feature Kubota's state-of-the-art E-TVCS diesel engines that deliver more power, with cleaner emissions. These tractors are designed for noticeably lower noise and vibration, while rear and mid-PTO's ensure that you will be able to use your Kubota B- or Grand L-Series tractor for all the jobs you do all year 'round.

The all new 13-18 PTO HP B-Series models give you bigger tractor features, in a compact tractor size. 2 or 4WD, power steering, optional Bi-Speed turn and hydrostatic transmission. The new sleek design enhances operator visibility and ease of operation, without sacrificing the rugged dependability you expect from a Kubota.

The Grand L-Series has a choice of transmissions: the new fully synchronized main transmission with synchro-shuttle that allows shifting-on-the-go through the 4 main gears, or the new GST (Glide Shift Transmission) which allows shifting-on-the-go through all 8 speeds. Both run smoothly and efficiently with the new larger diameter capacity clutch. A roomy operator deck is ISO-mounted to greatly reduce vibration. Tilt wheel, power steering and high back seat add to operator comfort.

Take a look today at Kubota's new B- or Grand L-Series for any job, any place at any time!

Kubota Tractor Corporation markets a full line of tractors through a nationwide network of over 1,000 dealers. Financing is available through Kubota Credit Corporation.

4-H Horse Enthusiasts Come Out Winning

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State 4-H horse club members were honored recently at the 37th annual State 4-H Horse Show, Oct. 25-27 at the State Farm Show Complex.

The primary purpose of the state 4-H horse program is to develop life skills in youth and skills in horse management. 4-H'ers develop riding skills, gain self-confidence, and learn proper care of animals.

The state show culminates the year for approximately 7,000 Pennsylvania 4-H members enrolled in horse and pony 4-H clubs. To be eligible for this show, 4-H'ers had to advance through qualifying shows at county, regional, and district levels.

Alana Minnig, daughter of Alice Hutchins, RR 7 Muncy, first in Pleasure Horse Driving.

The Pennsylvania State 4-H show was recently held in Harrisburg. Riders from all over the state competed in this 3 day event. The local 4-H "Hoof Prints" club had four representatives there competing. Alicia Kearns of Bethlehem won 1st place riding "Believe In Me" in the Hunter Under Saddle class and 3rd place in Hunter Hack Horses. Sandra Orner, of Bangor riding "Golden Promise Cherokee," participated in two classes, Jr. Equitation, and Hunter Hack Pony in which she received 4th place in both of these events. Meredith Frable of Kunkletown riding "Lady Quinn" and Ashley Rutt of Saylorsburg riding "Super Advenger" both competed in the Sr. Equitation class and pinned 3rd and 4th consequently.

Land Judging Contest

The Queen Ann's FFA Chapter won the first place banner in the land judging contest held recently.

The contest was held in Queen Ann's County, Maryland. The contest is sponsored by the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts as a special project of the Maryland FFA Foundation, Inc. The high scoring individual for the Land Judging Contest was Sherry Riggelman, member of the Clear Spring FFA Chapter. The Clear Spring High School FFA Chapter took the second place banner in the contest.

First place team from Queen Anne's County: Mr. Tribbett, Laurie O'Connell, Duncan Butler, Chris Meredith, and Tommy Leager.

Second place team from Clearspring: Sherry Riggelman, Lindsay Mills, Medi Drury, Tonya Robinson, Brian Stottlemeyer, Paul Kelly, Glen Ruck, and Mr. Flynn.

According to Contest Superintendent Carl E. Robinette, soil scientist with the United States Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, nine teams were registered with 44 members participating. Contestants were asked to evaluate soils at three sites for their capability and their limiting factors.

The members were then to recommend the best management practices for agricultural and non-agricultural land uses at each site. Jim Brewer and Phil King of the Soil Conservation Service supervised the contest.

The winning teams in the land judging contest from first through third were Frederick High School, Clear Spring High School, and Queen Ann's High School.

The top scoring individuals receiving gold medals were: 1. Sherry Riggelman, Clear Spring FFA, 2. Duncan Butler, Queen Ann's FFA and 3. Craig Meredith, Queen Ann's FFA.

Make A Difference Day 4-H Clubs Help Community

Bucks County 4-H Clubs joined a nationwide community service day recently as part of Make A Difference Day, sponsored by USA Weekend with the Points of Light Foundation. The sixth annual event focuses on making the world a better place.

Wightstown 4-H Club members dressed in Halloween costumes, visited with residents of the Buckingham Valley Nursing Home, provided a petting zoo for the event, and delivered a craft item for each resident.

Building bird houses and bird feeders for area group homes was the service project for Hilltown 4-H Club. Group home residents will maintain the feeders during the winter.

The Langhorne Clovers 4-H Club is making 10 Thanksgiving centerpieces for the residents of Attleboro Nursing Home. Club members will deliver the centerpieces to the Attleboro residents in time for the holiday season.

County 4-H Awards

Meghan Dougherty, Furlong, and James Kaminski, Bensalem, received the I Dare You Leadership Award recently at the Bucks County 4-H Achievement Night.

This countywide award recognizes leadership qualities, academic achievement, school and community involvement, physical or athletic activities, and good character.

Dougherty, daughter of John and Alice Dougherty, is a senior at Central Bucks East High School. She is a member of Buckingham 4-H Club, National Honor Society, and runs cross country and track. She was a county delegate to the 4-H Citizenship Washington Focus event in July. As part of the 30-member Pennsylvania delegation, she observed government in action in Washington, D.C.

Kaminski, son of Terry Kaminski, is a member of the county's 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club. With another 4-H member, Kaminski is developing a computer Internet home page for puppy raisers. He is learning to fly a single engine plane, plays on a neighborhood basketball team, and has received an award from the Presidential National Physical Fitness Program. He is home schooled.

Kaminski serves as a counselor for the 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Camp this summer. He tutors another child in computer skills and serves as a teen leader in his 4-H Club.

Clover Award

Three outstanding 4-H members received the Bucks County 4-H Clover Award at the recent 4-H Achievement Night. Earning the 1996 top 4-H county award were Jason Smedberg, Chalfont; Ed Buckman, Perkasie; and Lore Ferguson, Quakertown. The Clover Award recognizes outstanding citizenship, leadership, and achievement.

Smedberg, son of James and Immogene Smedberg, is president of Hilltown 4-H Club, and a junior in a home school program. His 4-H achievements include participation in the state 4-H Capitol Days in Harrisburg, captain of the county junior air rifle team, and delegate to the Southeast 4-H Teen Leadership Conference at Millersville University.

Buckman, son of Warren and Lisa Buckman, is a junior at Pennridge Upper High School. Buckman has been active in the 4-H Dairy Program for eight years and has served as vice president of the Bucks County 4-H Dairy Club for two years. He works on the family dairy farm and has been recognized for his 4-H accomplishments for two years by the Farm Credit Award for Outstanding Achievement. He is active in his church and the Pennridge Future Business Leaders of America.

Ferguson, daughter of Jim and Bonnie Ferguson, is a junior in a home school program. She has completed several 4-H horse projects and a 4-H veterinary science project. She is a teen leader in the Spurs N Burrs 4-H Horse and Pony Club. Ferguson teaches horseback riding to younger children, baby-sits, and provides service to a local nursing home.

Junior Cloverleaf

4-H County Awards

Eight Bucks County youth received the Junior 4-H Cloverleaf Award at the 4-H Achievement Night program recently.

In the 12- to 13-year-old division, winners were Matthew Crooke, New Hope; Annelies Pfeiffer, Warminster; Jennifer Lawrence, Blooming Glen; and Jon Moyer, Perkasie. The award recognizes leadership and carrying out 4-H club responsibilities.

Crooke, a member of the Buckingham 4-H Club, is the son of David and Chris Crooke. Pfeiffer, daughter of Heidi Pfeiffer, is a member of Warminster 4-H Club and the Bucks County 4-H Dairy Club. Lawrence, a member of the Hilltown 4-H Club is the daughter of Beverly Lawrence. Moyer, son of David and Rose Moyer is a member of the Bucks County 4-H Dairy Club.

In the 8- to 11-year-old division, winners were Emma Jean Kaminski, Bensalem; Mark Smedberg, Chalfont; Danielle Nilsen, Hellertown; and Jeremy Seglem, Yardley. Kaminski, member of the Bucks County 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club, is the daughter of Theresa Kaminski. Smedberg, son of James and Immogene Smedberg, is a member of the Hilltown 4-H Club and 4-H Dairy Club. Nilsen, member of the Spurs N Burrs 4-H Horse and Pony Club, is the daughter of Betsy Nilsen. Seglem, son of Lee and Joann Seglem, is a member of Edgewood 4-H Club.

Sometimes You Need A Spreader Built Like A Tank.

When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus, for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading. We call that performance. You'll call it terrific.

We hope you compare a Stoltzfus WLS with other spreaders. It makes us look even better. Price? Sure we may be a little more. But when you end up replacing cheaper units in a few short years, what have you saved? Stoltzfus quality always pays for itself many times over.

Just how tough is a Stoltzfus WLS? Plenty tough. Call today. We'll tell you where to find the dealer nearest you, and send you free literature to inspect.

Seedway Holds Meeting

HALL, N.Y. — The 33rd annual seedway dealer meeting was held recently in Hall and Syracuse, N.Y. with local sales and service representatives Rick and Pat Stevens, pictured with Seedway Rep Russell Hall, right, of Mehoopany, N.Y. Field plot tours of corn variety plots and new technology demonstrations in high oil corn, narrow row corn production, and Liberty herbicide resistant corn were featured the first day.

The second day focused on information in alfalfa, grasses, small grains, and soybeans, including Asgrow Roundup herbicide resistant varieties.

Key topics of importance to Northeast farm producers were covered in cultivar selection for nutrient management programs, emerging alfalfa variety technology, and corn silage storage quality.

The Stevens were recognized at the conclusion for local service to area farm producers.

Case Continues Strong Performance

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation reported third-quarter operating earnings of $103 million, up 8 percent over $95 million in the comparable period last year, excluding the $24 million pre-tax gain from the sale of Viscosity Oil in the third quarter of 1995.

For the first nine months of 1996, Case's operating earnings were $416 million, up 17 percent from the first nine months of 1995, excluding the Viscosity Oil sale.

Net income comparisons for the third quarter and year-to-date are affected by significantly higher effective tax rates in 1996 compared to 1995. Third-quarter net income for 1996, before extraordinary items, was $62 million, or $0.81 per share, compared to $88 million, or $1.19 per share, in the third quarter of 1995.

For the first nine months, Case's net income, before extraordinary items, was $247 million, or $3.28 per share, including $82 million in higher tax provisions versus 1995. Net income, before accounting changes, for the first nine months of 1995 was $268 million, or $3.67 per share. Assuming a comparable consolidated tax rate in 1995, Case's 1996 performance represents a 29-percent increase for the period, excluding the Viscosity Oil sale gain.

Net sales in the third quarter of 1996 were $1.15 billion, compared to $1.14 billion in the third quarter of 1995. For the first nine months, net sales were $3.7 billion, even with the same period last year, as a result of the company's strategy to reduce dealer inventories through its supply chain management initiatives. In addition, the company has divested a significant number of company-owned retail stores since the third quarter of last year.

The third-quarter operating earnings improvement of $8 million, excluding the 1995 gain from the sale of Viscosity Oil, was driven by restructuring and other cost savings. These were partially offset by inflationary cost increases, higher research and development spending, and lower volumes resulting from supply chain management.

During the quarter, Case completed the largest introduction of new products in the company's history, with the rollout of more than 20 new agricultural equipment products.

Other actions completed in the third quarter include the acquisition of Austrian tractor manufacturer Steyr Landmaschinentechnik AG and the creation of a global alliance to integrate the company's worldwide logistics network.

In addition to these third-quarter actions, on Oct. 7, 1996, Case also announced the acquisition of Fermec Holdings Limited, a U.K.-based construction equipment company.

Worldwide retail unit sales of Case equipment rose 11 percent in the first nine months of 1996. Retail sales in the third quarter were even with the same period last year, when several new products were fully available for the entire quarter. In addition, 1996 third-quarter retail sales followed a 27-percent increase in the second quarter of this year, when the company launched its Magnum Showdown Tour and other promotional activities prior to the introduction of new products in the third quarter.

Case Credit Corporation

Case Credit Corporation, Case Corporation's retail financing subsidiary, had net income, before extraordinary items, of $23 million for the third quarter, down 12 percent from the third quarter of 1995.

For the first nine months, net income, before extraordinary items, was $68 million, down 4 percent from the same period last year. The decrease in both periods is primarily due to higher interest rates, which resulted in the recognition of a smaller gain on the third-quarter asset-backed securitization (ABS).

The third quarter also included an extraordinary, after-tax charge of $3 million for the write-off of unamortized bank fees in connection with the refinancing of the company's credit facilities. The new agreements were negotiated at more favorable rates and terms, and include a $1.2 billion increase in the subsidiary's lines of credit.

Portfolio acquisitions in the third quarter were up 23 percent to $679 million, compared to $550 million in the same period last year. For the first nine months, portfolio acquisitions increased 18 percent for a total of $1.9 billion, while the portfolio's loss-to-liquidation ratio remained low at 0.15 percent, even with that of last year. Growth in the quarter and year-to-date periods resulted from strong retail demand for equipment in North America as well as the addition of a new finance subsidiary in Australia. As of Sept. 30, 1996, Case Credit's serviced portfolio increased 17 percent over the same time last year, growing to a record $4.1 billion.

Case Credit made significant progress during the third quarter in growing and expanding its business. In September, Case Credit completed its largest-ever ABS transaction, an $875 million public and private offering. The financing company also launched a new credit care program during the quarter for dealer-based purchases. And a focus on international growth led to the creation of UZCaseagroleasing, an agricultural equipment financing company in the Central Asian country of Uzbekistan.

Snider's Elevator Hosts Open House

William "Billy" Snider, president of Snider's Elevator Inc., right, takes a moment to acknowledge Andy Barbuza, a designer for Wertner Signs. Snider's Elevator Inc., a family owned and operated business, has been in business since 1929.

LEMASTERS (Franklin Co.) — Recently, Snider's Elevator Inc., a feed and grain mill, hosted an open house and guided tours at its Lemasters facility.

More than 1,000 people attended the festivities, which included a free lunch, doorprizes, and a 10 percent off sale.

Snider's Elevator, a manufacturer of dairy, horse, and livestock feeds, serves Franklin County and surrounding areas. The open house celebrated 10 years at the Lemasters facility.

Snider's Elevator, a family owned and operated business since 1929, started in Williamson. Since acquiring the Lemasters facility, Snider's have upgraded and remodeled the mill. Storage capacity was increased from 50,000 bushels to close to 400,000 bushels.

Under a tent, vendors from 20 different major manufacturers greeted guests and answered questions. Also, Snider's Elevator hosted Harmony Hills and South Lawn Stables miniature horses.

Customers congregated at the dairy nutritionists' tables to learn about new dairy feeds, and to find out what services they offer. Snider's Elevator dairy feed nutritionists Rick Ruppert and Mark Potter participated in the open house to discuss their role as full service technicians. Independent dairy nutritionists Gilson Martin of Star Dairy Resources and Michael Crouch of Renaissance Nutrition also had an opportunity to explain their consulting services, when farmers came by their displays. The nutritionists make farm calls, and design custom rations for each particular herd of cows.

Snider's Elevator then receives cow feed rations from the nutritionists, and uses the rations to manufacture feed. The nutritionists use computers to formulate the feed rations. Each ration is tailored to suit the farmers' needs.

Open house attendees had an

Tours included the mill, where the stored grain gets processed into finished feed. Snider's Elevator manufacturers feed for a variety of animals including dairy and beef cows, horses, hogs, chickens, sheep, and goats.

Snider's Elevator, Inc. recently hosted an open house.

Implement Company Sells, Services Farmhand, Glencoe

RICHLAND (Lebanon Co.) — Lebanon Valley Implement Company in Richland is an authorized dealership for Farmhand loaders, grinder mixers, tub grinders and mulchers, and Glencoe field cultivators, soil finishers, rippers,

"These new product lines have the features and accessories that meet the needs of our customers," said John Zimmerman, co-owner. "Having these product lines available is also in keeping with our goal of serving as a one-stop resource for agricultural equipment and maintaining overall customer satisfaction."

"Farmhand and Glencoe are well-recognized brands with a reputation of quality and reliability, and farmers throughout the area are invited to stop by for a firsthand look at this equipment," said Marlin Zimmerman, co-owner and service manager.

Leon Stauffer, parts manager, said the dealership will stock replacement parts for all present owners of these product lines, and maintain a parts inventory for new equipment purchasers.

"For equipment-down emergencies, we can source a needed part from any of 12 strategically-located North American parts warehouses. Most of these orders are shipped the same day they are placed," said Stauffer.

Farm Safety Grants Available To Qualified Organizations

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Qualified organizations are urged to apply for a second round of statewide farm safety grants, according to Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius, who also serves as chairman of the Farm Safety and Occupational Health Advisory Board.

"Our goal is to reduce the number of serious farm accidents in Pennsylvania," he said. "The Farm Safety and Occupational Health grant program will provide $25,000 in 1997 toward educational or training projects that increase awareness of farm safety and occupational health issues in Pennsylvania, especially among young people."

Accidental death rates are higher for farm workers than for workers in non-agricultural industries.

"More emphasis needs to be given to farm safety education throughout the year, so the loss of human lives and serious injuries can be diminished," Brosius said.

Direct grants up to $2,500 are available to farm organizations, volunteer fire companies, ambulance services and rescue squads for farm safety, occupational health and emergency response programs. The deadline for applications to be received at the Agriculture Department is Jan. 30.

Eleven organizations were approved to receive a total of $24,438 under the first round of the grant program. Board members selected the recipients based on the scope of their project and number of people who benefit, as well as the value and impact of the project to the agricultural community. They are:

- Bedford County Cooperative Extension, $2,488 for a farm health and safety day.
- Cambria County Cooperative Extension, $1,050 for a farm safety field day.
- Clinton County Cooperative Extension, $2,500 for farm and home safety camp.
- Fulton County Cooperative Extension, $2,500 for an agricultural safety expo and health fair.
- Lancaster County Coalition of Safe Kids/Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, $2,500 for annual farm safety day camp.

• Pennsylvania 4-H Horse Program Development Committee, $2,475 for safety presentations at 4-H Equine Symposium.

• Potter County Cooperative Extension, $2,425 for a farm safety workshop.

• Somerset County 4-H and FFA, $2,000 to conduct a family farm safety day.

• Berlin Volunteer Fire Department in Somerset County, $1,500 to purchase educational materials for local farm safety presentations.

• Tioga County's Central Northern Tier Fire Training Facility, $2,500 to purchase equipment for simulating farm accident response and

• Union County Cooperative Extension, $2,500 toward operation of three farm safety day camps.

The Farm Safety and Occupational Health Act of 1994 authorized the Secretary to appoint a 13-member board to implement a comprehensive farm safety and health program in Pennsylvania.

For an application and list of program guidelines, call Gay Kreiser at the Agriculture Department at (717) 787-7204. Organizations that applied in 1996 but did not receive funding are encouraged to reapply for the second round.

Composting: Large Egg Producer's Answer To Manure Management

John Gingerich
Wegman's Egg Farm

Editor's Note: The following is a presentation given at the Cornell Poultry Conference on July 6, 1994.

The Egg Farm division of Wegman's Food Markets is an egg production complex located near Wolcott, N.Y.

Approximately 600 tons of finished feed is produced weekly, which is fed to 720,000 layers (soon to be 840,000) and 240,000 pullets. When inputs are invested into chickens, output is expected.

In this case, we are primarily interested in converting feed and water into eggs (currently approximately 300,000 dozen per week). However, there are other products of this process as well. Some of the energy produced is released in the form of heat, and some in the form of manure — more than 550 tons per week on a fresh basis.

How do we deal with it? Over the years, different methods have emerged. Until 10 years ago, all of the manure was handled on a daily basis. Cable-drawn scrapers brought the manure to an auger which loaded in onto a truck. The manure was hauled to lagoons sites on our cropland area where it was stored, then spread seasonally for fertilizer. It was a system with significant labor in handling and rehaling, as well as having significant equipment and maintenance costs.

Next came high-rise houses where manure drops from the birds on a second level into the lower level where it is stored, dried down somewhat (50-55 percent moisture), cleaned twice yearly using a skid-steer loader, and spread on the land. Definitely an improvement, but with the downside of fly problems and wintertime ammonia in the houses.

Most recent is the turbo design where manure collects on boards under the cages. Ventilation air moving over the manure dries it before it is scraped down through the slots into the pit below. This yields a very dry product (20-30 percent moisture) which is removed twice yearly. The ammonia problem is almost entirely eliminated in the upstairs bird area.

Recycling manure in its raw form as fertilizer to produce corn to feed back to the chickens wouldn't be too bad if it weren't for the world that we interact with. Much of our cropland drains into bays which, in turn, drain into Lake Ontario.

Too much manure over too long a time period has the potential of leeching excess nutrients (especially phosphorous) which can be damaging to the ecosystem. In reality, that problem may be more one of perception. We regularly monitor one particularly critical stream in several points, and find that the most significant pollutant sources are human rather than agricultural.

This does, however, bring up the most critical environmental creature we interact with — people. It is with these creatures that we can have a real problem. In the summertime, lagoons smell and give off flies. When liquid manure is spread, it just plain stinks. While the odors of spreading high-rise manure isn't as bad, if flies were breeding in it when spread, they can make enemies quickly with the neighbors. Turbo manure is also capable of boosting fly breeding.

The people we interact with today are less and less tolerant. They are quick to complain about odor, flies, pesticide spraying, mud or manure on the roads, and even dust from tilling the land. Lately, we have had people claiming resulting illness. Lawyers are consulted, and threats of various kinds are made (including calling the media).

The reality is that in order to survive and thrive in the future, there has to be a better way. We do not believe in being held hostage by problems, but rather to turn them into opportunities. Doing that, however, is a real challenge.

For the past few years, we had contracted with a company who used our high-rise manure for compost. They processed that product for retail sales. Even though they have gone out of business, we saw potential in the composting of manure.

Last summer, we constructed a composting facility with six 20 x

200 foot bays, utilizing a Farmer Automatic turner. This facility has the capacity to turn out up to 8,000 tons of composted manure per year. This is a stable product which can be stored, and is an excellent fertilizer product which, when spread, does not give off odor. Pathogens are also killed in the composting process.

Our immediate market for the product is for agricultural application, both for our own land as well as to sell to other farms. In the long term, marketing both in the landscaping and retail arena has potential. However, some further processing may be needed for those markets.

Our most immediate challenge is the daily manure cleanout. We still have facilities for over 300,000 layers as well as all the pullets producing over 40 ton daily of 70 to 80 percent moisture manure. This represents our greatest environmental problem, because it is too wet to compost. However, if we mix the very dry turbo manure with it, it becomes compostable.

Our strategy is to gradually convert more of the older facilities to new turbo buildings in order to be able to blend a proper moisture manure so that we can compost all of our manure. This will bring the facility up to full operating capacity.

If composting is looked upon as being the magic solution to all problems, well, challenges still present themselves. First, the facility to do this is expensive. Secondly, the composting process in itself creates significant odor. We are simply moving the odor from the point of spreading to the point of composting, so we have a different set of neighbors who are upset. We are working on technical solutions to this. We have made some progress, but need to make more. We know that solutions exist, but they are expensive, and their adaptations to our facility are not fully proven.

The challenges continue to present themselves. However, we continue to believe that hidden in the problem is a silver lining of opportunity for a valuable by-product.

Fire Drills Not Just For School Anymore

BOALSBURG (Centre Co.) — Imagine waking from a sound sleep to the cries of "Fire! Fire!"

Jumping out of bed you notice the glow of yellow light dancing like flames on the wall. Glancing out the window on your way out of the bedroom you realize that the glow is coming from your barn.

As you run down the stairs your mind races through thoughts of what to do. Call the fire department. Use the fire extinguisher or a hose to douse the fire. Get the horses out of the barn.

Reaching for the phone, your mind is still racing when you suddenly realize that you cannot remember the number for the fire department, not to mention your address. You run outside to get help only to find mass chaos.

Horses are in the barn squealing and people are running frantically.

By the time the fire department has been notified, precious moments have been lost along with everything in your barn. Horse have died and people have been injured. It's unfortunate. It's also preventable.

Fire escape plans are followed and routinely practiced in many schools, businesses, and homes throughout the country. However, few farms or stables have implemented fire safety practices. Times are changing, though. On Sunday, Oct. 13, several horse owners and members of a local fire company gathered at Slab Cabin Farm in State College. The purpose of the gathering was to learn how to develop a plan to prevent a tragedy similar to the one above.

The clinic started with Krisdean Beattie, an emergency medical technician and registered nurse at the Hershey Medical Center, discussing first aid care for people injured at a fire scene. She was followed by Dr. E. Scott McAllister, an equine practitioner from Centre Hall, who explained ways to care for horses injured in fires. Afterwards, National Equine Safety Association (NESA) representatives discussed the causes of fires and ways to prevent them. Then the group gathered outside for a mock drill.

Smoke billowed out of barn doors and windows. "Fire in the barn!"

At the sound of the cry Philip Jodon, owner of Slab Cabin Farm, came from a nearby shed. He walked briskly to the barn, pausing only briefly to feel the door for heat. Then he opened the door and walked into the smoke-filled building. Moments later his wife Sherry walked into the barn — she was delayed by calling the fire department.

When Philip emerged out of the smoke seconds later, he was leading a blindfolded horse. Quickly pulling the blindfold from the horse's head, he lead it to a nearby pasture. He turned the horse loose and chased it away from the gate. Then he walked briskly back for another horse. Sherri going to the pasture with a second horse, and passed by him. Not a word was spoken. The relay continued until the two managed to "save" five horses. It took less than four minutes.

Through practice the Jodon's will be able to reduce their time of evacuation, but more importantly those observing learned the importance of barn fire drills. Horses do not react the same as people, and it is important to be prepared for any situation that may arise when horses are involved.

The Pennsylvania Equine Council (PEC) plans to offer fire safety programs across the state. For more information, contact Bonnie Darlington, PEC secretary, at P.O. Box 570, Boalsburg, PA 16827, (814) 364-9826.

Agriculture Department To Boost Industry Marketing Efforts

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania agricultural organizations can double their promotional dollars by participating in the Pennsylvania Agricultural Product Promotion and Marketing Matching Grant Program, Agriculture Secretary Charles G. Brosius said.

"The Department of Agriculture is pleased to offer this matching grant program to help commodity organizations inform consumers about our high quality, nutritious, bountiful food products," Brosius said. "Each matching grant creates a public/private partnership that will help to increase sales for the commonwealth's number one industry — agriculture."

Pennsylvania nonprofit agricultural product promotion and marketing organizations are eligible to submit applications. Funding may be used to pay the cost of agricultural product promotion and marketing projects, the cost of a portion of the organization's contribution to a national or regional agricultural promotion or marketing project, the cost of education programs conducted by the applicant, and/or the cost of trade shows.

To receive a matching grant, applicants must provide funds in an amount at least equal to the amount requested. The minimum amount of a matching grant request is $1,000.

The deadline for submitting a completed application is Dec. 1. For more information or to obtain an application, contact Mike Varner in the Bureau of Market Development at (717) 783-9948.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS
IN THE 21st CENTURY?"

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

LAPP'S BARN EQUIPMENT CURTAIN SYSTEMS

Lapp's Curtain System

Lapp's insulated curtains can help you make your farm more efficient. You can save up to 30% on your fuel/energy costs while maintaining a comfortable climate enables livestock to feed into live weight more efficiently, the curtain makes your barn warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

Our curtains are available in both 4 and 6 ply, both of which are faced with a impervious white vinyl layer which faces the elements. With all these benefits, the average payback is two years!

A lower cost alternative to the insulated curtains, are Lapp's single layer curtains. You still get all the benefits of using a high quality curtain to keep the elements outside and being able to lower the curtain to naturally ventilate in your barn.

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.

"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price.
This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."

EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last

Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.

Looking for a new source of Soy Protein?

★ High quality by-Pass Protein at an economical price.

★ Consistent texture, color, and product performance.

Try our new Roasted Soybean Meal in your ration.

Sell your beans? "It just doesn't make sense"

1. Why lose the 18% high energy oil in your own beans?
2. Why let the soybean processor take the valuable lechicin?
3. Why forfeit 50% of the metabolizable energy over SBM?
4. Why pay storage, trucking and shrink?

Be sensible!
Let SCHNUPP'S
custom roast your Soybeans

Receive the value of added fat in your ration - MORE MILK
Get the most By-Pass Protein available in your beans - MORE PROTEIN UPTAKE
Keep all the nutritional components originally in the soybean. - MORE FLEXIBILITY
Soybeans are valuable, keep profits at home! - MORE FARM INCOME

IN ALUMINUM BODIES EBY BUILDS IT

M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.

NEW N4242Bt
(X4334CBR) RM:99

- Just as consistent and high yielding as N4242.
- Our Bt technology gives this hybrid extremely reliable resistance to European corn borer throughout the growing season.
- Also offers some protection against fall armyworm and corn earworm.
- Adapts to the same areas and management practices as N4242.

NEW N4640Bt
(X4734CBR) RM: 102

- All the agronomic advantages of N4640.
- Northrup King Bt technology adds the most effective, season-long resistance to European corn borer available.
- Also provides some protection against fall armyworm and corn earworm.
- Responds well on most soils under the same management as N4640.

Ag Professor, Students Receive NEBASA Awards

NEWARK, Del. — A University of Delaware College of Agricultural Sciences professor and two students swept the awards presented recently by the northeastern branch of the American Society of Agronomy.

At a program held at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., the three UD affiliates won three of the six awards given.

Dr. J. Thomas Sims, professor of soil and environmental chemistry in the department of plant and soil sciences, won the research award. As director of the soil testing program, Sims has become a regional and national authority on soil testing and nutrient and waste management strategies. He has conducted extensive research in soil fertility and management, particularly related to northeastern agricultural and environmental concerns.

Since 1978 he has written 34 refereed publications, two books and two software programs, in addition to editing and contributing to numerous books and professional journals. Sims is an active member of the Soil Science Society and the American Society of Agronomy, both of which recently elected him as fellow in recognition of his professional activities in research, teaching, and service.

Erin O'Reilly, recipient of the Senior Student Award, was graduated with honors and distinction from the university this spring with a major in environmental soil science and a minor in chemistry. According to her adviser Dr. Donald L. Sparks, distinguished professor and chair of the plant and soil sciences department, O'Reilly "is one of the most outstanding undergraduates I have known in my 17-year academic career." As an undergraduate, she conducted research with Sims that resulted in a refereed paper and a presentation at the 1994 NEBASA annual meeting. In her third year, O'Reilly received a prestigious and competitive science and engineering research internship from the Department of Energy to conduct research at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

In addition to her scholastic achievements, O'Reilly showed her leadership ability as an ag ambassador for the college, recruiting students and giving talks to alumni, parents, and prospective students. She has received a College of Agricultural Sciences Graduate Fellowship and will pursue graduate studies in environmental soil chemistry under Sparks' direction.

John P. DiVincenzo, the Graduate Student Award winner, received his doctorate this year from the department of plant and soil sciences. DiVincenzo has established an excellent academic record during his student career at the university, receiving a bachelor's in biology, a master's in environmental engineering, and a doctorate in environmental soil chemistry, during which he maintained a 4.0 GPA.

As a graduate assistant, his research focused on the fate and mobility of organic contaminants in the environment. He has been an active and enthusiastic teaching assistant, has authored five publications in refereed journals, and has given four presentations at national meetings.

DiVincenzo's academic achievements helped earn him a faculty position in the department of chemistry at Middle Tennessee State University, where he will teach environmental chemistry.

Van Dale Tag Team!

SERIES 5000 LAGOON PUMPS & SPREADER TANKS

Here are two Van Dale Waste Handlers that really complement each other. Start with the new Series 5000 Lagoon pump that will agitate and empty the biggest and toughest lagoons or pits faster than any other pump on the market. Then check out the Van Dale Tank that meets your needs in 2700 - 5500 gallon capacities. They feature a low uniform spread pattern and with specially treated corrosion resistant 1/4" steel plate construction backed by a 10-year warranty you won't have to worry about buying another tank for years and years and years!

THE VAN DALE ADVANTAGE

WASTE HANDLERS

Check out these pump features:

- Low cost method of feeding round bales in the stable
- Four wheel steering for tight corners
- Easy to convert from two to four wheel steering or vice-versa; simply move one bolt
- Rotary table mounted on tapered roller bearings
- Table lock to prevent undesired rotation
- Brake on when handle is up
- Can be supplied with quick change brackets for easily switching handle to front or rear

Sunflower drills quickly transport from field to field.

Seeding Technology that's backed by the Sunflower name...

SUNFLOWER offers the right opener for your field conditions and farming style.

Now you can handle your conventionally drilled acres... simply increase down pressure and move right into your residue laden fields for quality no-till drilling. Sunflower's new "two-in-one" opener has the right combination of components and strength to perform well in both conditions. Heavy duty Sunflower construction makes this drill stand apart from competitors... and you'll want to investigate the host of options to get the job done better and faster.

THE "ROCK-FLEX" STORY

Invented by Krause in 1965, Rock-Flex bearing standards absorb shock from rocks and extend disc blade and bearing life. Rock-Flex bearing standards also provide improved residue clearance.

SALELADDER

- Least expensive alternative when tread is worn
- Minimizes damage to paved surfaces

NU-WAY

- Best in ice, mud and manure
- Self-cleaning
- Double ring 2 1/2" diameter
- Rides high on tread

DUO GRIP

- Rides on top of deep tread
- Doesn't settle between tire lugs
- Great on soft surfaces

The new generation of Belarus.
For a new generation of farmers.

Exceptional value. That's what cost-conscious farmers expect from hardworking Belarus tractors. But after twenty years we feel it's time for a change. So we've updated the features and styling of our new 5000 and 9000 Series while keeping everything that makes Belarus so dependable.

Take our new synchromesh transmission, for example. It offers 14 forward and 4 reverse speeds for easy-to-shift power. Plus, an improved turning radius provides greater maneuverability for a whole range of applications.

See your local Belarus dealer for a test drive...and see for yourself!

CLEAN SILO CHUTE

Innovative Design and Outstanding Performance combine to make this the premier system on the market.

Field tested to fine tune the silage flow from the unloader to the discharge point, eliminating dirty silo chutes.

Durable polyethylene means less resistance and silage build-up.

Easy installation
Retrofits many existing chutes.

The NEW LEADER L3020
Heavy Duty
LIME SPREADER

For more than 50 years, New Leader has aggressively met and exceeded market demand by producing the most dependable, adaptable and durable spreaders in the industry. The heavy-duty L-3020 spreader is a direct result of New Leader's unmatched experience in the agricultural equipment field. Designed for high-volume applications of ag-lime and gypsum, the rugged and resilient L-3020 is also suitable for spreading fertilizer and hauling aggregate material. Equipped with an optional swinging rear endgate, the L-3020 can be quickly and efficiently converted into a controlled discharge, no-hoist dump system for stockpiling. The L-3020's standard 30-inch wide conveyor system virtually eliminates the material bridging that's common with narrower conveyor spreaders. The versatile L-3020 broadcasts ag-lime at rates up to six tons per acre and fertilizer at rates as low as 150 pounds per acre.

Other Available Features:

- Complete body in 304 or 409 stainless steel
- Mounts on vehicles equipped with highway, semi or full flotation tires
- An optional ladder that attaches to either the left or right-hand side of the unit.
- Optional heat-and-petroleum-resistant conveyor belting available for transport and application of hot asphalt.

BE MORE PRODUCTIVE EVERY DAY

New Holland 60 Series GEMINI™ tractors deliver uncompromised power and versatile performance POWER. Reliable 7.5 liter engines feature exceptional lugging ability PERFORMANCE. The exclusive 18x6" Range Command™ transmission features six powershift gears in three ranges. Or choose the new 23x12 Dual Command™ transmission COMFORT. Exceptional visibility front to rear plenty of legroom, easy-to-reach controls, two doors, comfortable seat and quiet interior SERVICE. Exclusive flip up hood allows total access to battery and filters

TOUGH

Need to handle the toughest jobs? Check out the Model L465 New Holland Super Boom™ skid steer loader. The L465 is built tough to give you superior performance and durability. The L465 has a 30-horsepower diesel engine and a 1,250-pound SAE operating load. It has a Pick Up n Go™ universal attachment system so it's compatible with New Holland or competitive attachments. And you can get to routine service points with the boom down. Stop in to see what makes New Holland Super Boom so tough.

TRACTORS THAT TAKE HARD WORK SERIOUSLY

New Holland 35 Series tractors really pull their weight in the field
• 4-cylinder New Holland engines have good lugging capacity and produce very little smoke or noise
• The high-capacity 14.5 gpm hydraulic flow assures dependable operation
• 3-point lift system activated by a touch control is best in class
• Electro-hydraulic differential lock provides maximum traction when needed

GET INCREASED SPINNING ACTION

Save time and increase efficiency with a Model 28 New Holland forage blower. This 540 rpm blower features a 44 inch diameter hopper that center-fills silos up to 80 feet high. The Whirl a Feed™ rotary table spins crops into the blower housing and material gets off to a fast start up the blower pipe. Spinning action breaks up heavy clumps and virtually eliminates plugging.

THIS SPREADER'S GOT STAYING POWER

The Model 306 side delivery spreader spreads slurry, free-stall gutter, poultry and even most pen packed manure cleanly and quickly. Offset auger paddles use power efficiently. Hydraulics control the spread pattern for a consistent spread rate. Get optional side extensions for 1700-gallon capacity. It's built so well it comes with a twelve-year tank warranty.

NEW TOUGHNESS OLD-FASHIONED DURABILITY

When the Case International 3800 Tandem Disk Harrow was introduced, it combined real improvements with the quality features of the 350, 370, and 475. For instance, a 1 1/2 inch round arbor bolt at the heart of every gang assembly.

Or consider the spring-cushion, self-leveling hitch. And, you'll disk confidently all day long using the mechanical depth control. The 3800 is available in widths from 9 ft. 1 in. to 20 ft 6 in. Just pick the 3800 that fits your power availability and tillage needs.

Buy your new cushion gang disk harrow right here in Quarryville 12', 14', 18' In Stock For Fall Tillage. Competitive financing available - or - an extra rebate for cash.

ALL-NEW SUPER BOOM™

THE HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP

When you're looking for a skid-steer, there's the challengers and then there's the champ. Well say hello to the undisputed champ in the all-new Model LX885 New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader.

It has a 60-horsepower, turbocharged diesel engine for the ultimate in power. Its massive 2,200-lb. operating load picks up where all others leave off. Of course, it has the features you expect from New Holland, such as the best speed, stability, visibility, lift height and dump reach in the industry. Add that to the Pick Up 'n Go™ universal attachment system and there's nothing it can't handle. Stop by today and put the champ to work for you.

The Harvesting Specialist

This offer is subject to normal acceptance guidelines and down payment requirements. Binding customer to dealer purchase order is required.

The corn cracker can be changed in 5 minutes to switch from corn to hay. The Jaguar's efficient processing produces quality silage for higher milk production.

The operator can safely sharpen the chopping knives and precisely adjust the shearbar from the driver's seat automatically.

The efficient cutting system has a full width metal detector, 30" wide chevron cutting drum and full width 8 blade accelerator.

The unique top to back cooling system with rotary air screen assures excellent clean cooling.

Service is easy because compartment covers quickly swing open to provide easy access to the engine and cooling system.

Hurry In...

The compact size of the L35 with TL720& BT900 allows you to operate efficiently in tight, small areas that are inaccessible to larger TLBs. And, it's easy to move from one job to another. It can be transported with just a 3/4 ton pickup truck and trailer, usually with a regular Class C Driver's License. Operators find the controls "user -friendly," especially useful in rental fleets, and large contractor fleets where operators may go from one piece of equipment to another on a regular basis. The L35 retains the full versatility of a compact with its 3-pt. hitch and PTO for tilling, mowing or box scraper work.
